FIRE CAPTAIN MEETS DEATH

Several Firemen Injured in Worst Fire in History of the City

Total Loss Estimated at Over $800,000 — Old Landmarks Razed

City of Lawrence and Town of Dracut Send Fire Apparatus and Men

One heroic fireman lost his life, ten of his fellows required hospital treatment and three of the city's big buildings were reduced to a miniature mountain of ash, buried debris and charred brick when Lowell was visited early Sunday morning by the most destructive fire in local history. Only the lack of a stiff wind saved this conflagration, which for hours was of menacing proportions, from wiping out block after block and assuming the nature of a Chelsea repetition.

Every available piece of apparatus in Lowell, two companies from Lawrence and two pieces of apparatus from Dracut, engaged in the battle which was probably the most intensive fight for the preservation of life and property ever staged north of Boston. Eleven hours after the first alarm was sounded firemen who had been working too hard and too wholeheartedly to feel the grip of exhaustion, returned to their station houses leaving behind a buried, junked ladder truck and a charred, smoky, smoking mass of debris, over which here and there sections of ruined yet still standing brick stood as silent skeleton sentinels.

hospital attention and all responded to treatment.

Loss Near Million Mark
The Associate building, the Academy of Music and Sparks' stable are total ruins, only brick skeletons twisted steel work and charred timbers marking their former location.

The beautiful new home of the Knights of Columbus and the H. R. Flood building in Dutton street are damaged practically beyond repair; and the Monaghan building, only recently altered and improved, is also seriously damaged. The total fire damage is estimated today at between $800,000 and $1,000,000.

Outside Aid Asked

blazing madly, the Lawrence and Dracut fire departments were asked to send apparatus. Lawrence sent two triple-combination pumping engines over the road, accompanied by Chief Edward J. Morris and a squad of policemen, while Dracut responded with their triple combination and one hose wagon under Chief Frank Gunther.

Killed By Falling Wall
Capt. Cunningham was killed and Fireman Gray injured when the west wall of Associate building buckled and fell outward onto Worthen street following a hot air explosion. Gray was strapped to the top of Aerial Ladder 3 while Capt. Cunningham was half-way up the ladder. As the wall buckled, both men realized their danger and the captain started down the ladder. Before he reached the ground, however, the wall fell outward and Capt. Cunningham was hurled to the street beneath tons of brick and debris.

Gray was unable to extricate himself from the straps which held him to the ladder and the ladder was thrown across the street. It seemed impossible for him to have avoided serious injury. The aerial ladder truck was buried under debris and reduced to junk.

Heroic Disregard of Safety
While the walls were still falling, a number of firemen, totally disregarding their own safety, rushed to the assistance of Capt. Cunningham and Gray. The unfortunate captain was quickly extricated and rushed to the Corporation hospital, where he died a few moments after arrival. Several men started up the twisted aerial to assist Gray, but he extricated himself before their arrival and slid down the ladder into

WELCOME HOME PARADE TURNING FROM CENTRAL INTO MERRIMACK STREET

The greatest demonstration ever held locally for a high school athletic team was the welcome-home reception given Lowell high track team stars this forenoon on their return from the Pennsylvania relay carnival at Philadelphia. It eclipsed every other expression of appreciation in the school's history and made the boys who represented the school and city at the meet feel that honor may be found within one's own community.

Greeted at the depot in Middlesex street by several hundred cheering boys and girls of the school, by members of the school committee and other interested citizens, the boys, Henry H. Harris and George F. Haggerty were congratulated and honored and told over and over again that Lowell is proud of them. The high school regimental band and a platoon of police led a parade through Middlesex, Central and Merrimack streets to city hall steps where whatever formality there was attached to the exercises took place. There were speeches of congratulation and praise by Mayor John J. Donovan, Headmaster Henry H. Harris, Faculty Adviser James F. Conway and Coach George Haggerty; cheers for the team and the school led by Joseph A. McAviney of the school faculty, the singing of the new school song and one verse of "The Star Spangled Banner," sung to hand train from Boston, reaching here at 12:40. When they left the train the only entry of the mine and volunteer rescue crews were driven back. An hour after the explosion occurred, not a single rescue worker had been able to enter the mine.

Two cars of the United States bureau of mines stationed at Pittsburgh have been ordered to Edgewood. They are expected to make the run in less than two hours.

Entries to the mine which is a drift mouth, were blocked by falling rock and debris, further hindering the work.

of rescuers. Deadly fumes are seeping through the blocked entries.

More than two hundred workers from nearby mines rushed to Edgewood when word of the disaster spread. Their first task was to clear the entrances so that rescuers could go in. The rock and debris blocking the way was attacked with picks and dynamite.

Among those trapped under ground was George Holliday, the fire boss, who went in this morning to see that all was safe.

A slope fronting the mine mouth soon was crowded with men, women and children. They were unimpressed by a drizzling rain, for most of them awaited word from relatives trapped in the mine.

TIMOTHY DONOHUE DEAD

Well Known Citizen Died
Sunday at Hospital After Brief Illness

Timothy F. Donohue, for many years a well known and successful business man, died in St. John's hospital yesterday after a comparatively brief illness. Mr. Donohue, a prominent member of the Lowell lodge of Elks, Lowell Aerio of Eagles and the Washington club, had a host of friends in Lowell who will be grieved to learn of his death. Always congenial and willing to lend a helping hand to all, Mr. Donohue's death will be widely mourned. He was at one time a member of the old common council and maintained a hearty interest in the city's welfare even in his life as a private citizen.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Elin (Devine) Donohue; one son, Joseph A. Donohue; seven daughters, the Misses Catherine, Mary, Dorothy, Eleanor, Grace, Estelle and Rogelia Donohue; five sisters, the Misses Mary and Helen Donohue, Mrs. T. D. Leonard, Mrs. Albert Rhodes and Mrs. Josephine McDermott; and three brothers, Dennis and Donohue of this city, and Jeffrey of Washington, D. C. Deceased made his home at 232 Moore street, and was a devout attendant of the Sacred Heart church.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR
MICHAEL J. JOHNSON

The funeral of Michael J. Johnson, for 44 years organist in St. Patrick's church and well known generally in local musical circles, took place with impressive ceremony from his late home, 228 Suffolk street, at 9 o'clock this morning. An hour later, a solemn high mass was sung in St. Patrick's church by Rev. John J. McGarry, D. C. L., pastor, as celebrant; Rev. Thomas J. McDonough, as deacon, and Rev. James A. Supple, D. D., as sub-deacon. Seated within the sanctuary during the services were Rev. John J. Shaw, pastor of St. Michael's church; Rev. James P. Lynch, Rev. Thomas J. Hennessey and Rev. Anthony J. Madigan of St. Michael's; Rev. Charles Harty, O. M. I. of the Sacred Heart and Rev. John C. Duffy, O. M. I. of the Immaculate Conception.

As a tribute to the memory of the man who had faithfully and efficiently presided at the organ for more than two-score years, there was a musical funeral mass during the mass, and a vacant chair at the organ, which had a short time before yielded to the musical touch of the deceased master, stood as a mute testimonial of esteem for the departed musician.

Terry's requiem mass was inspiring, and was a beautiful and dignified representation of the Catholic church in the city. The roles were sustained by James E. Donnelly and Edward P. Slattery, Jr., while the "Miserere" was sung by Mrs. James A. Murphy. The solo in the "Libera" was sustained by Frederick Cummings, and the "The Profundus" by Timothy Phinigan.

The burials were Thomas Johnson, James O'Neil, Andrew McCarthy, Daniel O'Brien and Cornelius Galan. Being a chartered member of Lowell council, 72, Knights of Columbus, practically every living charter member of that organization was in attendance at the funeral. The Lowell council delegates were Robert J. Thomas, P. G. K., John E. Hall, P. G. K., Dr. Hugh Walker, P. G. K., Michael Quinn, Patrick O'Brien and Humphrey O'Sullivan.

Interment was in St. Patrick's cemetery where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. McGarry, assisted by Rev. Fr. McDonough, Rev. Fr. Supple and Rev. Fr. Harty.

Funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers James F. O'Donnell and Sons.

HARVARD CLASS DAY EXERCISES

Many men prominent in the business life of Lowell attended funeral services for John B. Pilling, widely known shoe manufacturer, held this afternoon at his home, 1192 Middlesex street. The services were at 2:30 o'clock and were conducted by Rev. Isaac Smith, pastor of the Grace Universalist church. They were simple in character, consisting mainly of scripture reading, prayer and brief eulogy by the minister.

The active hearers were six men who had been employers of Mr. Pilling for 25 or more years, as follows: Messrs. Edward Gaudette, William Meisler, George Doran, Charles Hogue, James E. Leonard, Walter Hovey. The honorary hearers were Messrs. John L. Robertson, Harry G. Pollard, Frank P. McGilley, Allan R. Kirkland, Horace Beale, George C. BEAUTIFUL K. OF C. HOME WRECKED BY FIRE

Biggest Fire in City's History

their arms. He was removed to St. John's hospital, where it was found his injuries consisted of a fractured nose and numerous bruises.

The death of Capt. Cunningham was small of stature, the dark-haired fireman from the fire station, and they went at the fire after the accident. Cunningham was an enemy which was only waiting for an opportunity to snuff out their lives as the captain's life had been snuffed out.

All morning long but not explosions occurred in the burning buildings and showers of sparks were down to the streets and streets were very slightly injured. Fortunately, however, no one was seriously injured.

Fire Starts on Top Floor

The fire was discovered at 12:30 Sunday morning in a club room on the top floor of the Associated building and appeared to be only a minor blaze. An alarm from box 12 sounded at 12:31 and companies responding attempted to quench the blaze with chemicals. The fire had evidently been carried throughout the upper section of the building by drafts and in ventilation for the whole upper floor suddenly burst into flames while flames were in other places in the building.

First arrivals immediately recognized the seriousness of the fire's proportions and a second alarm was sounded at 12:31, followed four minutes later by the general alarm. At 1:25 o'clock, daylight saving time, Lawrence and Dracut were reported to be on the fire. The corner men and engines under Chief Morris and Chief Dunbar responded from Dracut with a triple combination and a hose wagon.

Spreads With Rapidity

The fire spread with great rapidity through the Associated building, but was being brought well under control when the whole wall on the Worthen street side of the building suddenly buckled and fell outwardly to the street.

Ladder Truck 3, the aerial ladder from the central station had taken its place there with all ladder equipment in position against the wall when the latter fell. Capt. Cunningham and his men were trapped. The unfortunate man was on the aerial ladder disengaging his men and was swept to the street under the falling wall. He was quickly extricated by his devoted subordinates, who worked feverishly with a reckless disregard of the imminent possibility of being themselves buried under another avalanche of brick and mortar. He was rushed to the Ferguson hospital, but died within a few moments of his arrival there.

Blow Signs Hoseman

The 70-foot aerial ladder, with Hoseman Gray strapped to the top, was pushed back by the weight of falling brick and wedged against the side of a building on the opposite corner. The hoseman was stunned by the blow, but recovered quickly, extricated himself before assistance reached him and slid to the street and safety amid cheers from a crowd that had been materialized into silence by the catastrophe to Capt. Cunningham and his men. The ladder truck was crushed under the ruins and remained in a pile of muck.

Following the extrication of Capt. Cunningham and the men, trapped with him by the tottering wall firemen entered the breach and attempted to quench the flames, regardless of their own personal danger, but their efforts were fruitless and the fallen wall offered an outlet and added draft for the flames and a blaze fully a hundred feet high rose from this opening, driving back by its heat all firemen on duty at that particular point.

Roof Collapses

The roof of the building collapsed quickly after the wall and sparks and flames mounted high to the sky. Sparks, carried by a gentle breeze, were everywhere, kindling buildings and causing incipient fires started.

The Academy of Music burst into flames within a few moments of the collapse of the Associated building roof and Sparks' stable was buried under ruins from the Associated roof and the back wall, which collapsed at about this time. The theatre provided excellent fuel for the flames and it was felt at this time that the Knights of Columbus building could not be saved, although great quantities of water were being poured upon it. Just as it was found the latter building burst into flames shortly after 2 o'clock, and a few minutes later was burning fiercely throughout the upper half of the building.

With entire buildings burning and several others in grave peril from the flames the Lawrence and Dracut fire departments were appealed to for assistance.

Recall at 12:45 Yesterday

The fire was not out at this time by any means, but it was sufficiently under control for the local fire department to handle. All morning long, up until noon, numerous lines of hose were directed upon the ruins of the several destroyed buildings and it was not until 12:45 yesterday afternoon that the recall was sounded.

During the morning sections of the walls of Associated building fell to the ground, endangering the lives of the firemen, and made the work of drawing out the ruin very dangerous.

Here Shells Remain

With the sounding of the recall, all that was left of Associated building was the brick front. All other walls having collapsed. The rear section of the Associated building was a ruin, the roof having caved in and several of the floors having gone likewise. The roof of the Knights of Columbus was gone and the whole upper section which formerly housed the gymnasium and hall, was but a mass of blackened ruins.

The bare front wall of Associated swayed slightly in the wind and threatened at any time to crash into Merrimack street. Before electric cars or automobiles were allowed to pass the building, a crew of expert building wreckers braced the shell so that if it did fall, it would fall into the ruins of the building and not endanger persons passing in the street.

Avalanche of Ruins

Where formerly stood the Academy of Music was but a pile of brick and burned timbers and the section of Sparks' stable located near to the Associated building was buried under a pile of bricks which had formerly been the rear wall of Associated.

Fire Lines Established by Police

The efficient handling by the police of the immense crowds who rushed to the fire upon the sounding of the general alarm met with warm commendation on every side. The whole night shift of police had just completed their tour of duty when the general alarm was sounded. They were ordered to immediately establish fire lines. Assisted by many of the day shift men who were awakened by the alarm, lines were established at a safe distance from the fire and the firemen saved interference from spectators.

Horses Saved

Twenty-seven horses in Sparks' stable were left in safety by Andrew Jones, fireman, and officer Ryan when it was seen that the stable was doomed. The horses were nervous and difficult to handle and the last one had been out of the stable but a few minutes when the rear wall of Associated building crashed down onto the old structure.

Sparks Set Several Fires

The dense cloud of sparks which billowed up when the roof of Associated building collapsed drifted over the center of the city and set fire to an awning of the Lowell Gas Light company in Shattuck street and also to the roof of the Farrington hotel at Bowens corner, now Rogers' corner. A lawless company quickly extinguished both of these fires.

Crowds View Ruins

News of the fire spread quickly. All day yesterday Merrimack street was filled with on-lookers viewing the ruins and local people who had not heard the alarm in the morning likewise visited the scene. Police on duty at the fire estimated the crowd at over 100,000, and the number of machines as well over 5,000.

Had Narrow Escape

Thousands of people gathered at the ruins yesterday morning, and there was a continuous procession of sightseers all day long. At 11:08 o'clock, hundreds of spectators on the Merrimack street side were heard to gasp and scream as the bricked partition on the north side of the Associated building falling gently with the breeze and then topple to the street, landing with a resounding crash.

The debris landed on the exact spot where Henry Dearbas, a water department employee, a moment before was shutting off water in a hydrant in the street, under the direction of Robert Gardner, superintendent of the water department. A crowd of newspapermen

EARLY MORNING FIRE CAUSES LOSS ESTIMATED OVER $800,000

PICTURE OF THE FIRE TAKEN AT 3 O'CLOCK SUNDAY MORNING

FIRE CRACKED GLASS ON THE CITY HALL CLOCK

Some idea of the intense heat created by the devastating flames at yesterday's conflagration may be gained from the fact that the faces on the City Hall clock were cracked thereby.

Biggest Fire in City's History

It was close by endeavoring to get a clear view of the ruins, and it had a narrow escape up an adjoining alley which had been cleared of spectators by Lieut. Martin Connors of the police department but a few moments previous. Where Mr. Douglas stood, a huge piece of solid granite and a mass of yellow brick landed with a deafening thud. As the possibility was ever imminent that other parts of the walls were likely to give in without warning, the police and fire-fighters exercised great care in keeping the crowd at a safe distance.

Fire started again. Shortly after midnight this morning, flames were discovered under the ruins of the main stairway of Associate building and a still alarm was sounded at the Burns street firehouse by Police Lieut. Crowley and Officer Daniel Lynch. The blaze was hard to get at and firemen were engaged for over an hour before the flames were finally extinguished.

NO CLEW AS TO CAUSE OF FIRE

STREET RAILWAY WIRES SHUT OFF

Supt. Thomas J. Sagers and Lieut. James Farrell of the street railway company with a crew of firemen were on the scene of the fire upon the sounding of the general alarm and power in all street railway lines in the vicinity of the burning buildings was ordered shut off so that firemen could not be endangered by live wires.

TENANTS OF THE ASSOCIATE BUILDING

RUSHED TO SIDE OF DYING CAPTAIN

As the huge north wall of the Associate building on Worthen street tumbled in during the course of the conflagration, toppling backward the aerial ladder upon which Capt. Edward J. P. Cunningham was perched and throwing him to the ground, Rev. Appleton Grannis, rector of St. Anne's Episcopal church, who had been an anxious spectator and fearful for the safety of the firemen battling the flames in a perilous position, rushed to the fire captain's side and gave religious solace.

Although Capt. Cunningham is a Catholic by faith, the priest was welcomed by thousands of citizens, who lauded the popular clergyman for his prompt coming to the stricken fireman in a noble effort to offer religious solace in his last hour. The rector attended the dying fire-fighter until a priest, Rev. Dr. McGarry, pastor of St. Patrick's church, came to administer the last rites.

FORMED VOLUNTEER COMMISSARY OUTFIT

Their beautiful new home inevitably doomed to destruction, the Knights of Columbus did not despair. Not long after the flames had eaten their way into the building and made all chance of its salvation an impossibility, several members of the organization were on hand to lend whatever assistance they could. Vision of the historic work done by the "Caseys" in the World war were revived with characteristic simplicity when Grand Knight Frank A. Groves, Deputy Grand Knight John J. Flannery, Lecturer Edward F. Slattery, Jr., Joseph Sheehy, Joseph Duffy, James Kane and George Groves formed a volunteer commissary and served coffee, doughnuts and sandwiches to the fatigued fire and police men from early morning until after 10 o'clock.

OFFER K. OF C. USE OF ROOMS

When the news of the destruction of the beautiful home of Lowell Council K. of C. spread throughout the city, Grand Knight Frank Groves began to receive a number of offers from local organizations and hall owners for the use of their rooms. Rev. Dr. McGarry, pastor, and Rev. Dr. McDonough of St. Patrick's were first to come forth. They volunteered the use of the K. of C. rooms, Harold Chaffaux, president of the J. L. Chaffaux Co., offered the third floor of the Phoenix building in Prescott street. Mr. Groves said today that in addition to the above the following places had been placed at the disposal of the Knights: the C.M.A.C. Edith's Crescent Bank, Y.M.C.A. Mathews, and South End rooms. Grand Knight Groves is deeply grateful to all.

DID NOT REQUIRE CANAL WATER

Considerable criticism was heard on the street during the fire yesterday that the canal in Worthen street was empty during the progress of the fire. From the office of the Locks and Canals this morning it is learned that employees of the company were on duty yesterday morning and if Chief Saunders had requested that the canal be filled his request would have been complied with immediately. Chief Saunders, however, was of the opinion that the city water supply was sufficient and did not request that the canal be filled.

TENANTS OF THE MONGEAU BUILDING

The tenants of the Mongeau building were as follows:

George's cigar store.
Willis Peltier, Jeweler.
Gauguin Bros., electricians.

TRAFFIC VERY HEAVY HERE YESTERDAY

Traffic in the downtown section of the city yesterday was the heaviest since the explosion in South Lowell of the powder plant of the United States Cartridge company 20 years ago. In the opinion of police and street railway officials.

News of the big fire spread quickly throughout eastern Massachusetts and Southern New Hampshire and automobiles crowded with sightseers, headed toward this city. On the boulevards leading to the city were continuous lines of machines while in Merrimack, Central, Prescott and Market streets, there was not a moment during the day that there were at least several hundred machines headed toward the scene of the fire.

Police Chief Atkinson estimated the crowd at several hundred thousand and estimated the number of machines at nearly ten thousand. As an example of the heavy traffic, street railway officials said that a car bound for the city was on time at the Memorial Auditorium yesterday afternoon, but was 20 minutes late on reaching the square.

The day shift of police was called out at 6 o'clock yesterday morning and relieved the men of the night shifts who had been on duty since the beginning of the fire. Traffic officers were on duty on all the above mentioned streets and handled the traffic as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

NO DEFINITE PLANS FOR THE FUTURE

Frank A. Groves, grand knight of Lowell council, Knights of Columbus, stated this noon that nothing definite concerning the future plans of the organization are known at present. Through the press and membership channels, the grand knight promises to make known any plans. A decree, which was to have been conducted this evening, will be held in another hall at the C.M.A.C. Edith's Crescent Bank, Y.M.C.A. Mathews, and South End rooms. Grand Knight Groves is deeply grateful to all.

STARS AND STRIPES ARE STILL WAVING

During the mad-dash of fire and falling stone, the Stars and Stripes on the K. of C. building hung suspended from the mast over the Dutton street entrance. At times concealed from view by the dense volumes of smoke, that swept over the building, the flag nevertheless withstood the attack and still waves with the breeze, perhaps the only original piece of equipment not consumed in the catastrophe.

MAYOR'S TRIBUTE TO CAPTAIN CUNNINGHAM

Among the many friends and admirers of Captain Cunningham, the heroic fire-fighter who met death at his post of duty during the fire Sunday, was Mayor John J. Donovan. The mayor this morning expressed his regret at the passing of Capt. Cunningham, a lifelong friend.

FIRE TODAY IN WASTE COMPANY'S PLANT

Sales of cotton waste in the second floor of the Northern Waste Company's plant, located in the yard of the Bigelow-Hartford Company in Market street, burst into flame shortly after 10 o'clock this morning and threatened for a few minutes the whole mill building.

Automatic sprinklers, assisted by local firemen, managed by 11:25 at 10:05 o'clock, limited the fire to the sales of waste in which the fire started, no vegetable fat. So it cannot prove damaged. No estimate of the damage could be given at the Waste Company's office this morning, but it was said the water damage would greatly exceed the fire damage.

Upon the arrival of the fire apparatus, dense quantities of black smoke were pouring from windows on the second floor of the building and it was feared another disastrous fire was in progress. Several hose lines were brought into action quickly and, with the sprinklers, sufficient water was poured on the burning waste to put the fire quickly under control.

The roof was sounded at 10:20 o'clock but one company of firemen stayed at the plant for nearly half an hour after the fire was put out. Several fires which appeared in piles of waste stored on the floor and in throwing out the burning and burned material into the alley.

TOOK THINGS OUT OF HARM'S WAY

When the fire broke into the Mongeau building yesterday morning, firemen and civilians entered the stores and of those and salvaged vast quantities of materials, which were placed in the Y. M. C. A. building. Practically the entire contents of the Richards Art Shop, the Peltier jewelry store and the Smoke shop were saved in this manner. The York club threw open its doors to firemen and served coffee and doughnuts throughout the morning.

Service rendered by the telephone company was excellent. Several operators, upon hearing the general alarm, went to the office of their own accord and assisted the girls on duty there in handling the thousands of calls which came in during the early morning.

CARRIED INSURANCE

E. Gaston Campbell carried the insurance on the stock and fixtures of the Richards Art Shop in the Mongeau building, and also insurance on the General club building.

KEPT SEWER OPEN

Streets. Superintendent Delbert called a sewer crew of twenty men to work Sunday to keep sewers in the vicinity of the fire scene free and clear. Due to the efforts of the fire fighting crew, no blocks of importance and no sewerage functioned well despite the heavy load which was put upon them.

MET A HERO'S DEATH

Capt. Cunningham Was Gallant Fire-Fighter and Splendid Type of Man

Today the entire personnel of the fire department and many civilians are mourning for Capt. Edward P. Cunningham, hero of the fire Sunday morning at the Associate building.

It is doubtful if there was a man in the department who was more popular with his fellow workers than Captain

CAPT. EDWARD P. CUNNINGHAM

Cunningham. He was always willing to assist any fireman who needed help. Always had a kind word when things were going wrong, and a smile when things were at the breaking point.

Working on the aerial ladder in Worthen street yesterday morning, it is undoubtedly true that he realized his own danger. He saw the brick wall buckle before any of his men and shouted to firemen on the ladders and on the street below to get out of the way before attempting to save himself. With everyone but the fireman who was strapped on the ladder saved, he started to the street himself, but the wall craved outward before he reached safety and he was swept to the street amid a shower of brick and mortar. He was alive when his frantic comrades reached him, but died shortly after arriving at the corporation hospital.

Chief Saunders' Tribute

Capt. Cunningham was appointed a permanent fireman in 1911, promoted to lieutenant in 1918 and to captain in 1922. Chief Saunders was visibly affected over Capt. Cunningham's death and said, "He was a splendid young man, a clean and sterling character, a firefighter, fearless and courageous. His loss to the department cannot be measured in words. Captain Cunningham was a most capable officer," he continued, "and I valued his services very, very highly. I sympathize deeply with his family at this time in their loss."

Captain Cunningham was at the head of the movement for the instruction of fire prevention among school children and was also active in the Firemen's Relief association. He resided at 129 Mammoth road and was an attendant of St. Columba's church, where he was a member of the Holy Name society.

He leaves beside his wife, Helen P. (Keefe) Cunningham, three children, Leo, Helen and Pauline Cunningham; two brothers, Walter J. of Lowell and Joseph L. Cunningham of Everett; and an aunt, Mrs. Mary Fawcett. The body was removed to his home by Undertakers James P. O'Donnell & Sons.

BRIEF HISTORY OF ASSOCIATE BUILDING

Associate building, which was reduced to a mass of ruins by yesterday's disastrous blaze, was opened to public inspection in 1922 and was financed by a group of business associates composed of James and John Coffey, Humphrey O'Sullivan, James O'Sullivan and the late John Donovan. It was the first towering structure for office and club purposes to be built in downtown Lowell. Patrick O'Hara, now chairman of the Lowell planning board, was the contractor.

The Knights of Columbus were among the first occupants of the building, occupying rooms on the fifth floor. Later, the building was taken over by the fire department and the firemen's relief association.

The building, which was involved in no little litigation due to financial disagreements, with banking interests, changed hands in 1922, being purchased by Joseph P. Bateman, James A. Donnelly and Dr. John J. Donnelly of Lawrence. During 1922 two remodeling jobs were handled by Contractor Fred E. Meloy, who also made the alterations on the Mongeau building, adjacent to it.

The change was made in October 1922, when the store formerly occupied by the Merchants Clothing Co. was divided into four stores at an expense of $5000. New plate glass windows were put in place, partitions installed and the appearance of the first floor of the building changed.

LIFE BELT SAVED FIREMAN GRAY

The life belt used by the fireman, climbing the ladders, and one of which was instrumental in saving the life of Fireman John Gray, were returned to the local department by Chief Saunders when he took office several years ago. The belts, containing a swivel arrangement have proved a great help in fighting fires of yesterday's magnitude. A brand new attachment was recently delivered to the chief and it was one of the new belts that Fireman Gray was wearing when his ladder plunged against the building in Worthen street.

BERGDOLL IS MISSING BODY OF MME. DUSE LIES IN STATE

Relatives Anxious About His Whereabouts—May Be in Switzerland

NEW YORK, April 28. The body of Elizabeth Duse, today lies in state in St. Joseph's chapel of the church of St. Vincent.

Friends and admirers of Mme. Duse, who died in Pittsburgh last week, thronged about the church yesterday as the coffin, draped with the Italian flag, was carried into the chapel, which is open to the public today. The coffin, inside which lies a six foot casket, was decorated with flowers of which Duse was particularly fond, will remain sealed.

After the funeral, services next Thursday, the casket will be removed to a place at West 57th st., where it will be placed aboard the steamship Public, sailing for Italy. Arrangements for the funeral are in charge of the Italian consulate.

Bergdoll's relatives assert that he never tells them of his plans before starting on trips, and they assume he possibly went to Switzerland. They say all his personal effects are still here and they do not believe he has started for America.

ARRIVED JUST IN TIME FOR FIRE

Mayor Donovan, Chief Saunders, Principal Joseph James E. Donnelly and Councilman James P. Donnelly were in Boston Saturday evening to attend the state council, Knights of Columbus, dinner. They started back to Lowell at about 11:45 o'clock and arrived at the fire just as the last alarm was being sounded. The chief remained at the fire until late last evening and Mayor Donovan was at the fire until 5 o'clock Sunday morning.

CARRIED INSURANCE

Donnelly, owned by Henry and Peter Watson, the office of John P. Donnelly, the Sparks stable and carriage shed, owned by the estate of J. C. Ayer, the stock of the Mongeau Shoe Store, the office furniture of Dr. Robert L. Jones, and the T. C. Eastwick company, which was only slightly damaged by fire and water.

A Perfect Skin

No blackheads, no blemishes ever
BY EDNA WALLACE HOPPER

Mine is a perfect skin, a skin which young girls envy. After years of ac-cne, blackheads, and blemishes, I have it now.

I owe all this to a little bottle of Facial Youth. It contains no harmful ingredients, no poisons, and it keeps her young. Those blemishes and blackheads, and they keep me a beauty still.

Now I have arranged so every girl and woman may have these identical helps. This I hope to bring to millions of beauties.

My Facial Youth

One is a liquid cleanser which I call my Facial Youth. It contains no harmful ingredients, no poisons, and it keeps her young. Those blemishes
and blackheads, and they keep me a beauty still.

It simply cleanses the skin, gets rid of the dirt, and keeps it clear. When I wipe it off, all the dirt and grime that clings to the skin comes with it.

Clean the skin in the best other way you know. My Facial Youth will still remove much extra grime and refine.

May First Dedicated to Children in Nation-Wide Festival Planned to Stimulate Health Activities

A nation-wide demonstration with a purpose which its sponsors anticipate will have an instant appeal to the minds and hearts of all America, is that planned for May day of this year by the officials of the American Child Health Association.

The day, always associated with childhood in its happiest mood, has been dedicated by the association as the one most fitting on which to carry on a program devised to awaken the interest of grown-ups in the health and happiness of the nation's boys and girls. President Calvin Coolidge, all the governors, municipal authorities, prominent educators and ministers are united with millions of parents in this great effort to carry before the public the gospel of child health.

Officials of the association, among whom are many of the successful American authorities on social problems, selected May Day for their program so that the festival associated with that date might be held, but they have given the day an additional designation of great significance—they call it "take heed day" for the parents. The association will have considered its task worth while if the interest of the community is aroused in the concerted effort to safeguard the health of the boys and girls of the nation.

Traditional customs of the day will have a large part in the observance. The picturesque hanging of May baskets, the colorful pageants and, of course, May Day dancing are to be included in the programs. The festive spirit will predominate.

Herbert Hoover, president of the American Child Health Association, has discussed the May day program in a call to the grown-ups of America to join in the demonstration.

PLEASING RECITAL IN LIBERTY HALL

A highly enjoyable recital was given last evening in Liberty hall of the Memorial Auditorium by popular local talent, and a well known young lady pianist from Providence, R. I., under the auspices of Notre Dame de Lourdes parish.

Miss Emily Gaudette, mezzo-soprano, and Miss Rita Breaux, pianist, of Providence, R. I., well known artists, was member and soloist leader of the Notre Dame de Lourdes church choir, and well known throughout the state, having given concerts in Jordan hall, Boston, and other cities, last evening held her audience spellbound as she interpreted the various later day compositions, among which was "Huslan," latest song composition by Louis Napoleon Guilbault.

"Take Me," by Logan, and Cadman's "Call Me No More" won rounds of applause from the gathering, as did her rendition of "H. Neige," a light, fantastic sketch by Bemberg.

Miss Rita Breaux, pianist, of Providence, R. "We wish to emphasize the fact," he says, "that child health is the personal concern of every citizen of the United States."

In a single sentence the association's president sums up just what the organization seeks to accomplish by the May Day observance.

"This," he says, "is a problem of maintaining health rather than of curing disease."

Just a year ago, President Hoover published the American Child's Bill of Rights, and it still is the platform on which the association is carrying on its work. He then declared that there "should be no child in America who is not born under proper conditions."

"Does not live in hygienic surroundings."

"Does not have an opportunity for out door play."

"Does not have prompt and efficient medical inspection and attention."

"Does not receive primary instruction in the elements of hygiene and health."

It is an effort to induce every community to translate this bill of rights into actual facts that the association has planned the May Day celebration.

Miss Crandall is the organization's associate general executive.

The association has its headquarters at 370 Seventh avenue, New York city.

effected much applause from her admirers.

Mr. William Bilodeau, noted violinist, and a pupil of Concert-master Burgin of Boston, who has given numerous recitals in Portland, Me., Boston, and other cities, was last evening warmly applauded by the audience, as he interpreted numerous selections, one being "Gondolina," latest violin sketch with piano accompaniment, by Louis Napoleon Guilbault, and last evening played publicly for the first time.

Among the many renditions of the evening, Mr. Bilodeau gave "On Wings of Song," the ever popular composition.

"Le Nil" a trio, in which Miss Breaux, Miss Gaudette and Mr. Bilodeau participated, was a most striking number, Miss Gaudette sustaining the solo. She was assisted by Miss Breaux as accompanist, while the violin obligato was played by Mr. Bilodeau.

As an encore to this number, "Elegy," by Massenet, was most willingly offered by the trio.

Never clutter up an end table. Two or three books, within reach, and a small vase with a few flowers or a small lamp instead of the vase, if a door lamp is not nearby, is all that such piece of furniture should carry.

K. OF C. CLUB HOUSE IN HISTORIC BUILDING

The destruction of the Knights of Columbus home in Dutton street in Sunday morning's fire takes away from the city one of its most historic landmarks.

Prior to being used as the knights' home, the building housed a church and prior to that time from the earliest days of the city, it was the home of the Middlesex Mechanics association.

It was in 1834 that the Mechanics association was presented the lot of land on which a year later was erected the building which had featured so prominently in the city's life. Mill owners joined with members of the Middlesex Mechanics association in contributing funds for the building and upon its completion, the Mechanics association began a very important career. For many years lecture lectures were provided for the general public and the best centers to the land came here to talk on subjects of the moment. Its library and reading room, splendidly equipped, also drew large numbers of Lowell residents. For 60 years or more the association quarters served as a clearing house of literary and scientific culture for one thing, and a place where men could resort for study, debate and mental recreation.

With the waning of interest in the old-time association, the modern trend being away from this kind of institutions, came new dwellers in the famous building. When the First Congregational church society split, Rev. George F. Kennell, pastor, took the loyal adherents of his flock away from the First church fold and into the Dutton street building and formed the Trinitarian society.

Then came the World war and the Dutton street building housed war workers and the American Legion for a considerable period of time. With the completion of the World war, the Knights of Columbus chose this building as the site of their new home and purchased it. The entire interior of the building was altered and, from an obsolete structure, it became the modern home of one of the largest organizations in the city. It was completed and occupied last year.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC WAS FIRST LOCAL THEATRE

Many long dormant but ever-fragrant memories were revived yesterday when the news of the destruction of the historic Academy of Music spread quickly through the city and county.

Older Lowell knew this institution of public endeavor when it was in the heyday of popularity, admired, cherished, held as a gathering place for solace and gratifying entertainment and actively supplying the needs of a discriminating public entering preferably to the very highest type of dramatic entertainments of a bygone period.

Well known Lowell families, now grown to maturity, but still active in the general community activities and advancement programs of the city in which we live, remember the days far away and long ago when the Academy of Music, originally Music hall, held the admiration and regular patronage of citizens of every class in industrial Lowell. For in the days when Music hall held the throne of local amusement, no class lines were drawn when American and European theatrical stars of the ante-civil war period came to this city in the course of a New England itinerary.

In many a home in Lowell today, where descendants of well known men of the earlier business pioneer life of the community still live and cherish relics of the things that were, are treasured as articles without price, rare Music hall theatrical programs, printed in the rough night-up style, with ancient type of wooden "cut" and ill-printed on the old hand presses.

Historians will find printed upon some of these "hand bills" as they need to be called back in the theatrical days after the Civil war, the casts of characters of such venerable plays as "East Lynne," "The People's Lawyer," "Ecceles," "The Iron Chest" and, greatest of all, perhaps, "Hamlet," with Edwin Booth in the wonderful cast. His brother, Julius Brutus Booth, appeared later in "Katharine and Petruchio."

"East Lynne" was presented in Music hall in the year 1862. Edwin Forrest came to Lowell about that time, also, other names familiar in theatrical annals just after the Civil war, included Mrs. L. P. Bower, Miss Janausack, John F. Owens and other lesser lights, some of whom reached higher fields in the theatrical spectrum in later years, but others whose only appearance in Lowell was to prove their last.

Music hall was crowded by Major Henry Emory, then proprietor of Lowell's famous hotel, the Merrimack house. The theatre was opened in the autumn of 1867 by the Boston Theatre company, a "stock" which was playing at the Boston theatre regularly when not en route through New England on "extra." Charles R. Thomas, Jr., stellar romantic actor, was in the leading role when the stock company came to Lowell.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, In the wisdom of Almighty God the silence of death has suddenly sealed the lips of our esteemed brother officer, Officer Martin Conway of Haverhill, the members of the Middlesex County Deputy Sheriffs and Court Officers Association, recognize that they have lost a genial and faithful friend who has performed many public duties in an efficient, able and courteous manner.

Born February 8, 1860, he served his native town as Selectman and Chief of its Police Department for many years. He was appointed a Deputy Sheriff of Middlesex County, November 8, 1914, and during the World war rendered valuable service to his State and Country as head of the Special Police Department at the United States Cartridge company at Lowell, where he had charge of a large force of men entrusted with great responsibilities.

His death, April 22, 1924, in the presence of several members of this organization, with whom he was preparing to open the Court session at Lowell for the day, was a fitting way to bring to a close such a record of public service as was his.

THEREFORE, It is Resolved that the Middlesex County Deputy Sheriffs and Court Officers Association, extend its sincere sympathy to the members of the family of the late Martin Conway and direct that a copy of this Resolution be inscribed upon the record of the Association and that copies be sent to the family of the deceased and to the Press.

Big Welcome to High School Boys

person to greet them was a representative of this paper and a photographer. Word was at once sent to the school and arrangements for the reception were speeded up.

When the parade got under way from the depot there were about 400 in line, mostly high school boys and girls, with the team members, Mrs. Pearson, Mr. Delaney and Mr. Prentiss of the school committee and other school officials riding in automobiles. At the head of the line was a platoon of police in charge of Sergeant Michael H. Wynn and including Officers Keenan, Leahan, Maloney and W. Linton. Then came the high school band in charge of Bandmaster Giblin. The automobiles came next and were followed by the school pupils on foot. A huge "L.H.S." banner had a prominent place in the line and throughout the march cheer leaders kept calling for more noise and more acclaim.

On city hall steps Mr. Conway voiced the appreciation of the school for the splendid manifestation of interest shown in the team and said that with such a spirit, athletics at the high school cannot fail. He presented Mayor John J. Donovan, who spoke for the city and said how proud everyone was at what the boys had accomplished. Mr. Harris said the boys acquitted themselves nobly on and off the track and by their actions reflected credit upon the school and the city. He said it was a pleasure to have charge of such a fine group of boys. Coach Haggerty was deeply appreciative of the reception and gave all credit to the boys of the team.

The honors heaped upon the high school boys today are richly deserved. From every possible angle their running at the carnival reflected credit and honor upon the school, the city and themselves. It was their first experience in the line and throughout the march they went through the refining process in good shape.

This was the first trip of any appreciable length ever taken by a high school athletic team and it was the stiffest series of tests to which the boys could be subjected. With one or two possible exceptions, such as Andover academy, the competitors were from the biggest and strongest high and preparatory schools in the country and in two of the events in which Lowell was entered, the middle and two-mile relays, only preparatory school teams finished ahead of them. The mile event came at the end of Saturday's program, soon after the Latham twins had run in the two-mile race and the pace was too swift and too grueling and Lowell paid the penalty of too much competition. Seven teams started and finished in the following order: Brooklyn Technical high, Lakewood high, Medford high, Newark Central high, Hamilton Collegiate Institute, Newton high, Lowell high.

In the two-mile event for the interscholastic championship of America, Lowell was pitted against Medford made by Cedar Rapids high school in high, Huntington school, Mercersburg 1921. Lowell finishing in fourth place, academy, Lower Merion high school was made of the old record, which and Hamilton Collegiate. The Lowell team was pushed. The boys behind him then surged out in front, but he held on and in a gallant finish sent his brother Ernest away in third place, right on the heels of the leaders. Lowell was in fourth place when Burke began his relay and that place was kept to the Boston four of Carmy, Wood, Clark and Doolley traveled the distance in 17 minutes, 17.5 seconds, against the record of 8 minutes 22.5 seconds.

The one-mile relay for the American Philadelphia at two fraternity houses at the university, with Headmaster Henry H. Harris and Coach George F. Haggerty in charge of two groups. Thursday afternoon they were taken to the Washington-Philadelphia baseball game at Shibe park and on Saturday forenoon there was an automobile tour around Philadelphia. The boys left Philly at 8 o'clock Saturday night for New York where they stopped at the Prince George. Sunday was spent in recreation, including a bus ride up Fifth avenue and Riverside Drive. They left New York at midnight last night. The trip was a fine investment for the school and has aroused as much public interest in the school as ever was manifested in any of its enterprises.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

KHALO THEATRE

All roads lead to the Khalo theatre this week where the new Tom Mix special attraction "North of Hudson Bay" opens a six day run at that theatre today. Tom Mix, since his advent into pictures, has made a great many thrilling playdays. In fact, all of his pictures are advertised as "gripping," "exciting," "thrilling," etc., but all these adjectives fade into oblivion when it comes to describing "North of Hudson Bay." It's all these and a whole lot more combined. It contains more thrills in one foot of film than any picture in which Mix has been starred—and that's saying a great deal.

Mix is seen in the role of Michael Dane, who goes north to Hudson Bay, to find his brother and bring him back home to his mother. While he is on his way north, his brother is murdered and an innocent man is accused of the crime. When Dane arrives there and finds his brother dead, he is astounded. The man accused of the crime is sent on "the journey of death," a severe punishment which actually makes a man his own executioner. It is a crime for anyone to feed or aid him in any way. Mix not knowing that the man is the supposed murderer of his brother feeds him and is caught in the act. Together the two men are taken to the trading camp where they are held. Another murder is committed and this time, Mix is accused of the crime. The method employed by the real culprit, is the most ingenious ever devised, in fiction or on the screen. How Mix discovers the guilty one and fights his way bare handed through a pack of ferocious Arctic wolves—and how he finally vindicates himself and brings the criminals to justice makes "North of Hudson Bay" a picture that will long be remembered as a melodramatic masterpiece. We don't care a bit, whether Mix is your favorite actor or not, he will be your favorite after you see this picture and if you have any red blood in your system, you'll go out and say that it's the greatest picture you ever saw. The fight with the wolves is without any doubt the most hair-raising climax ever recorded on the screen. How Mix ever escaped this scene without any bodily injury is a miracle. At times it seems as if they would tear him from limb to limb.

The added attraction on the program is "Counterfeit Love," a five-track story. The very atmosphere of the locale of the story breathes romance and adventure. The scene of the play is in the south. The leading characters—a brave little southern beauty—becomes involved with the fascinating leader of a counterfeit gang who makes ardent love to her. There is a surprising denouement to the story which reaches a big climax at the county fair. And what a race! It's the last word in realism on the race track.

Other pictures on the bill include a new comedy and an up-to-date minute issue of Fox News.

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE

An all-star comedy bill, with musical interludes, is the offering at the B. F. Keith theatre, this week. So good is the entire lay-out that it is very hard to single out one act above and beyond another. Captain H. & Blair in "The Piano Player," are out-riders of the first water, while Clara & Archer are equally good with their original sketch called, "Not Now." The Four Diamonds, one of the most noted families of the stage, will entertain with singing, dancing and acrobatics, and White and Hawley make as witty a comedy pair as you'll find in a day's hunt. Others for the week are Rose and LaVelle, in music and fun, and the playing Henrys, acrobats. The week's screen feature, "The Barefoot Boy," will be one of the biggest hits of the entire season. It will be offered by a very competent cast.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Probably the most abused term used in connection with motion pictures is "all star." Nine times out of ten it means "no star," but in the case of the forthcoming production of Rupert of Hentzau, this is by no means the case. It is really the first production in which all of the principal leading men and women, as a glance at the following names of the cast will prove: Elaine Hammerstein, Bert Lytell, Lew Cody, Robert Bosworth, Claire Windsor, Bryant Washburn, Marjorie Daw, Mitchell Lewis, Hubert Rosworth, Josephine Crowell, Elmo Lincoln, Irving Cummings and Adolphe Menjou.

Rupert of Hentzau is a sequel to The Prisoner of Zenda, which was recently produced by Metro Pictures corporation, both having been written by the same author, Anthony Hope; the latest production was directed by Victor Heerman from a scenario by Edward J. Montagne. It deals with the romantic adventures of Rudolph Rassendyll, a young Englishman, who is almost a perfect double for the king of Ruritania, a mythical European principality. He is in love with the king's wife, Queen Flavia, and she with him, and this fact, together with his striking resemblance, leads to many complications and adventures. Rupert of Hentzau will be shown at the Merrimack Square theatre for two more days.

THE STRAND

Bert Lytell, Blanche Sweet and Bryant Washburn, three Re-make a happy and enjoyable combination in the presentation of the first National feature, "The Stranded Man in the World," which is being featured the first part of the week at The Strand. This time, assisted by several other well-known players, help to make this production one of real merit. The story has to do with a soft-hearted lawyer who is threatened with disaster, because of his soft-heartedness. He decides to be the "innocent man in the world" and his efforts were successful—in a way, but not the way one would naturally expect. You must see the picture story to fully appreciate and enjoy it.

Then there is "A Woman's Woman" with Mary Allen in the stellar role. This is a delightfully artistic and interesting story of a woman, who after 20 years of drudgery as a wife and mother, decided to throw off the yoke and demand something of life. The consequences are mildly startling and quite surprising. You will enjoy what develops. The remainder of the bill is in keeping with the high standard of the rest of the program.

MOVING DAY

NOW DOROTHY IS WIFE NO. 4

Arthur Hammerstein, impresario, has just entered upon his fourth matrimonial venture. His latest bride is Dorothy Dalton, movie actress. The picture was taken in Chicago on their wedding day. Hammerstein gave his age as 51 and Dorothy said she was 30. Miss Dalton is the divorced wife of Lew Cody, screen cowboy.

DYED LACE

Dyed lace is used extensively on lingerie this season. Nile green and apricot are two very popular shades. The advantage of dyed lace is obvious since in order to keep colored silk garments fresh looking it is necessary to re-dye them occasionally, and the lace is bound to become colored, so it might as well start out that way.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

$1,500,000 BUILDING

Pres. Coolidge at Dedication of National Academy of Sciences Building

WASHINGTON, April 28.—President Coolidge was the principal speaker at the dedication today of the new building of the National Academy of Sciences and the national research council. The building, erected near Lincoln memorial at a cost of about $1,500,000, will house, in addition to the national offices of the academy, organizations numerous exhibits of natural phenomena and scientific discoveries. It is regarded by authorities on architecture as the best work of Benjamin O. Goodhue of New York, who died Wednesday. Arrangements for broadcasting the dedication ceremony beginning at 10:30 a. m. were made through stations WCAP at Washington, and WEAJ at New York and the station of Providence, R. I.

Gunn Dunn, of New York, chairman of the building committee, in turning over the structure to the academy and council, explained that its cost and funds for its maintenance were provided in a $5,000,000 gift from the Carnegie corporation for aid in realization of one of the ideals of the life of Andrew Carnegie—the harnessing of science to lift the burdens and improve the condition of all the people of the United States.

STAGE ALL SET FOR THE PRIMARIES

The board of election commissioners today completed all arrangements for the presidential primaries which will be held in this city from 10 o'clock tomorrow morning until 8 o'clock at night. The ballot distribution among the various polling places will start promptly at 9 o'clock. Chairman McCosker said this noon.

The commissioners today awarded Sullivan Bros. the contract for printing the 1924 poll book lists, printed in pamphlet form and containing the names of registered voters in the various precincts. About 10 sets of such books are sent each precinct. The contract price was $1.14 a page and approximately 2500 pages are to be printed. The only other bidder, the Balfe Service Co., offered to do the work at $1.50 a page.

TODAY'S CASES IN THE DISTRICT COURT

Several cases of alleged assault and battery were disposed of by Judge Knight in police court this morning in prompt order, today's session being a short one.

FIRE CAPTAIN MEETS DEATH

Several Firemen Injured in Worst Fire in History of the City

Total Loss Estimated at Over $800,000 — Old Landmarks Razed

City of Lawrence and Town of Dracut Send Fire Apparatus and Men

One heroic fireman lost his life, ten of his fellows required hospital treatment and three of the city's big buildings were reduced to a miniature mountain of ashes, buried debris and charred brick when Lowell was visited early Sunday morning by the most destructive fire in local history. Only the lack of a stiff wind saved this conflagration, which for hours was of menacing proportions, from spinning out of control and assuming the nature of a cholera repetition.

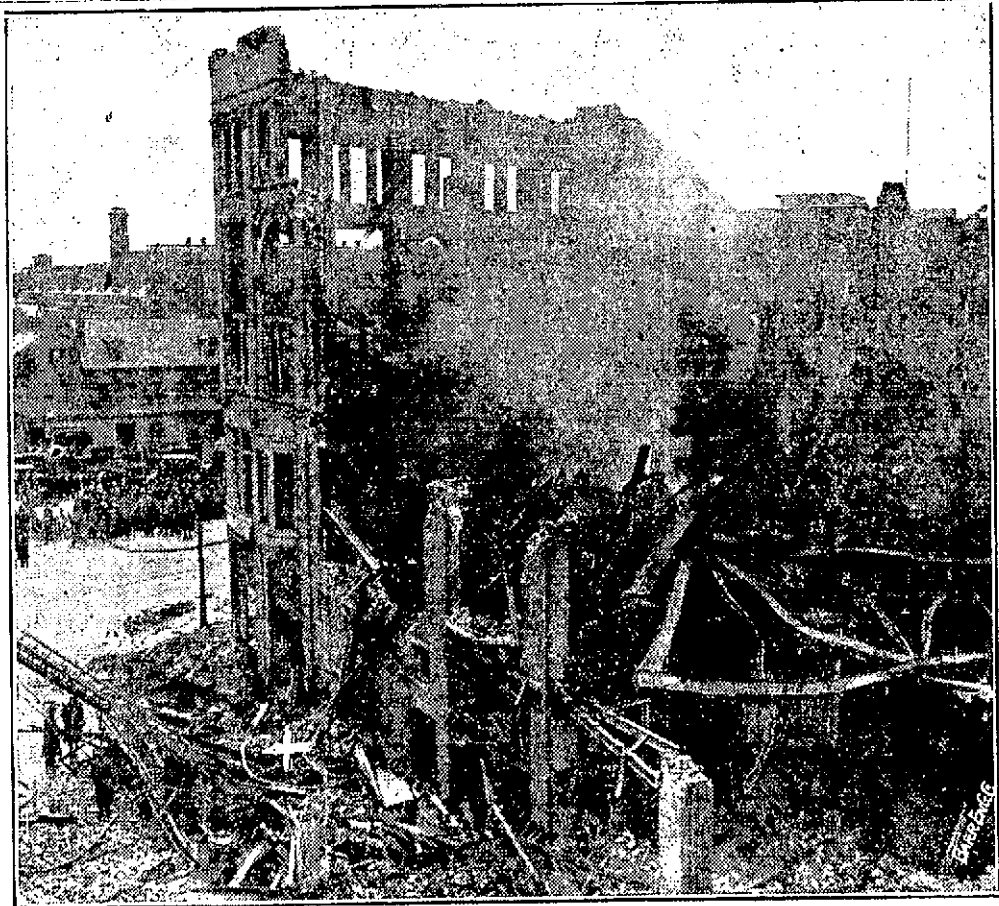

Every available piece of apparatus in Lowell, two companies from Lawrence and two pieces of apparatus from Dracut engaged in the battle which was probably the most intensive fight for the preservation of life and property ever staged north of Boston. Eleven hours after the first alarm was sounded, firemen who had been working too hard and too long bravely returned to their stations exhausted, leaving behind a buried, junked ladder truck and a charred, smoky, smoking mass of debris, over which here and there sections of ruined yet still standing brick stood as silent skeleton sentinels.

Capt. Edward P. Cunningham of Engine 6, as brave and competent a fireman as ever answered an alarm, died at the Corporation hospital, while the fire was in progress. The valiant leader was tossed from the ladder and caught under a falling wall and, although still breathing when extricated, the fire hero passed on to his reward while his men were still concentrating every thought and effort against the searing, seething, yellow menace which engulfed them. During the course of the conflagration ten other firemen required hospital attention and all responded to treatment.

Loss Near Million Mark

The Associate building, the Academy of Music and Sparks' stable are total ruins, only brick skeletons, twisted steel work and charred timbers marking their former location.

The beautiful new home of the Knights of Columbus and the H. P. Hood building in Dutton street are damaged practically beyond repair; and the Monahan building, only recently altered and improved, is also seriously damaged. The total fire damage is estimated today at between $800,000 and $1,000,000.

For the first time in the history of the city, assistance from out of town was summoned. Shortly after 3 o'clock, when the six buildings were all blazing madly, the Lawrence and Dracut fire departments were asked to send apparatus. Lawrence sent two triple-combination pumping engines over the road, accompanied by Chief Edward J. Morris and a squad of policemen, while Dracut responded with their triple combination and one hose wagon under Chief Frank Gunther.

Killed By Falling Wall

Capt. Cunningham was killed and fireman Gray injured when the west wall of Associate building buckled and fell outward into Worthen street following a hot air explosion. Gray was wrapped to the top of Aerial Ladder 3 while Capt. Cunningham was half-way up the ladder. As the wall buckled, both men realized their danger and the captain started down the ladder. Before he reached the ground, however, the wall fell outward and Capt. Cunningham was hurled to the street beneath tons of brick and debris.

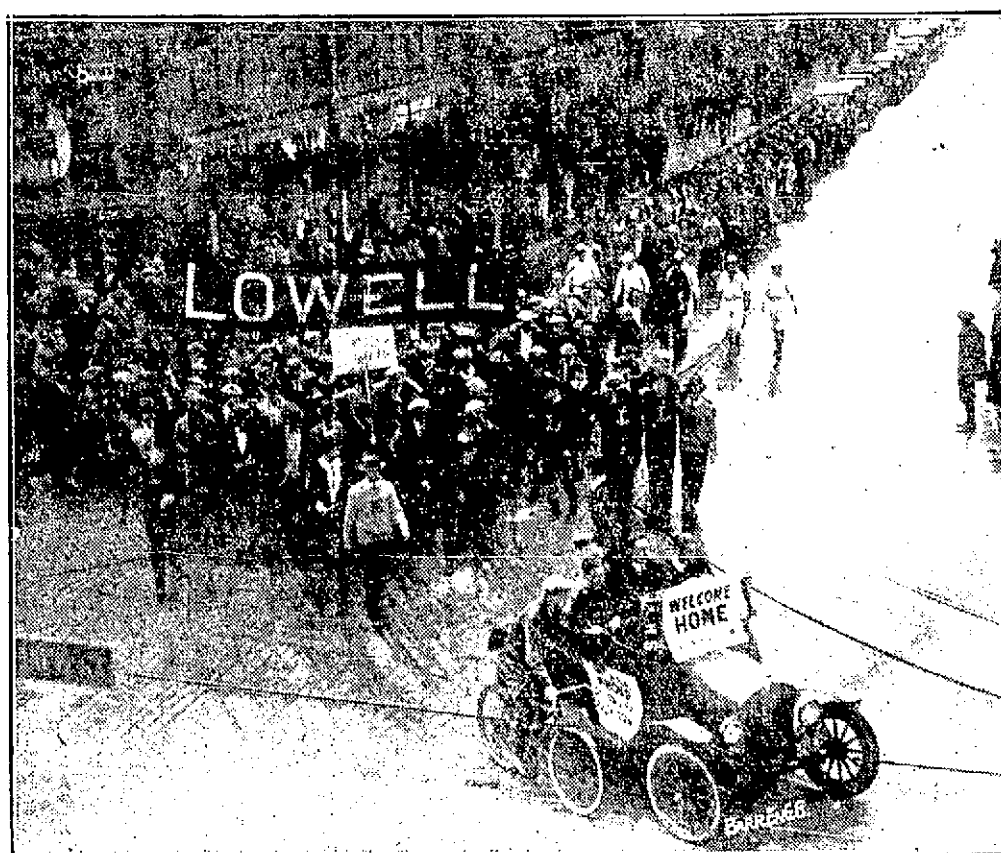

Gray was unable to extricate himself from the straps which held him to the ladder and the ladder was thrown across the street

It seemed impossible for him to have avoided serious injury. The aerial ladder truck was buried under debris and reduced to junk.

Heroic Disregard of Safety

While the walls were still falling, a number of firemen, totally disregarding their own safety, rushed to the assistance of Capt. Cunningham and Gray. The unfortunate captain was quickly extricated and rushed to the Corporation hospital, where he died a few moments after arrival. Several men started up the twisted aerial to assist Gray, but he extricated himself before their arrival and slid down the ladder into

The greatest demonstration ever held locally for a high school athletic team was the welcome-home reception given Lowell high track team stars this forenoon on their return from the Pennsylvania relay carnival at Philadelphia. It culminated every other expression of appreciation in the school's history and made the boys who represented the school and city at the meet feel that honor may be found within one's own community.

Greeted at the depot in Middlesex street by several hundred cheering boys and girls of the school, by members of the school committee and other interested citizens, the boys, Henry H. Harris and George F. Haggerty were congratulated and honored and told over and over again that Lowell is proud of them. The high school regimental band and a platoon of police led a parade through Middlesex, Central and Merrimack streets to city hall steps where whatever formality there was attached to the exercises took place. There were speeches of congratulation and praise by Mayor John J. Denovan, Headmaster Henry H. Harris, Faculty Advisor James K. Conway and Coach George Haggerty; cheers for the team and the school led by Joseph A. McAviney of the school faculty, the singing of the new school song and one verse of "The Star Spangled Banner," sung to band accompaniment.

DECISION IN PONZI CASE

Money Returned to Clients Just Before Bubble Burst is Recoverable

Must Be Turned Back for Benefit of All Creditors, Says Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Money returned by Charles Ponzi of frenzied finance fame to certain clients just before his financial collapse, is recoverable for the benefit of all his creditors, the supreme court ruled today. Trustees of Ponzi sought to compel Benjamin Brown and five others who had invested in Ponzi's "get-rich-quick" bubble to return for the benefit of all creditors, money Ponzi had returned to them a few days before he was declared insolvent. The federal courts in Massachusetts held that Brown and the others were entitled to retain the money. The supreme court today reversed the lower courts.

A man believed to be Harold Royce, an employee of the Goodwill Industries, Inc., in Brookings street, was seriously injured this morning when he fell into the cellar of the building while at work. He was taken to St. John's hospital where his injuries are reported as severe and his condition serious.

The manager of the Goodwill Industries refused to give any particulars of the accident, but from the ambulance driver it is learned that Royce was employed lifting barrels of ashes and waste from the cellar of the building by means of a rope and pulley arrangement. As he was lifting a barrel in this manner, the rope broke and he and the barrel fell into the cellar. Upon the arrival of the ambulance, the injured man was unconscious and remained in this condition at the hospital up to the time of going to press.

COOLIDGE QUOTED AS SAYING HE WAS TRYING TO "DELIVER" MUSCLE SHOALS TO FORD

WASHINGTON, April 25.—President Coolidge was quoted in a telegram today at the senate Muscle Shoals hearing as having stated that he was trying to "deliver" Muscle Shoals to Henry Ford. The telegram was sent by James Martin Miller to the Dearborn Independent, Ford's newspaper on Oct. 12, 1923. In offering the telegram, Chairman Norris said the White House records showed that Miller had an interview with the president that day.

The telegram read: "In private interview had with President Coolidge this morning, he said incidentally, on friendly to Mr. Ford, but with someone would convey to him that it is my hope that Mr. Ford will not do or say anything that will make it difficult for me to deliver Muscle Shoals to him, which I am trying to do." White president didn't say so, and sure Weeks had been in consultation with the president before he issued a statement replying to an attack by Ford several months ago.

"Before Ford interviewed the president," he said, "he called at my office with his secretary and said he had come to pay his respects and did not at that time talk business in connection with Muscle Shoals." Secretary Weeks said Ford's anger was aimed at him and not at the president because of the sale of the Gorgas Power plant, a unit of the

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION TRAPS 100 IN WEST VIRGINIA MINE

Fire Follows Terrific Blast—Fate of 100 Men Who Entered Mine Few Minutes Before Explosion Unknown—Rescue Crews Driven Back by Fire and Smoke

WHEELER, W. Va., April 26. A few minutes after 100 miners went to work in the Benwood mine of the Wheeler Steel Corporation near here, this morning, a terrific explosion occurred in the workings. The fate of the men is unknown. The blast, according to reports from Benwood, took place about three miles back in the mine. Benwood is situated in the same reported the mine was on fire.

Clouds of smoke drifted from the main entry of the mine and volunteer rescue crews were driven back. An hour after the explosion occurred, not a single rescue worker had been able to enter the mine.

Two units of the United States bureau of mines stationed at Pittsburgh have been ordered to Benwood. They are expected to make the run in less than two hours. Entries to the mine which is a drift mine, were blocked by falling rock and debris, further hindering the work of rescuers. Deadly fumes are seeping through the blocked entries.

More than two hundred workers from nearby mines rushed to Benwood when word of the disaster spread. Their first task was to clear the entrances so that rescuers could go in. The rock and debris blocking the way was attacked with picks and dynamite.

Among those trapped under ground was George Holliday, the fire boss, who went in this morning to see that all was safe.

A slope fringing the mine mouth soon was crowded with men, women and children. They were unimpaired of a drizzling rain, for some of them awaited word from relatives trapped in the mine.

PARIS, April 28.—(By the Associated Press) Differences in the French and Belgian viewpoints over the method of procedure in applying the report of the reparation experts developed in a conference here today in which Premier Thominis and Foreign Minister Hymans of Belgium and Premier Poincaré of France participated. "We shall be obliged to talk, discuss and reason before our viewpoints which are in no way irreconcilable, can be made to agree," said a statement from Belgian sources, just after the luncheon this noon.

MRS. PINCHOT SPEAKS

Says Growing Generation Possessed of Less Stamina Than Generations of Past

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 28.—Truth of assertions that the ties that bind society are loosened after every great war and that general social disintegration invariably follows, is proved in these days, Mrs. Gifford Pinchot declared today before the convention of the National League of Women Voters. Mrs. Pinchot denounced the younger generation, asserting, however, that both in the young and in the old the war had worked many destructive changes, and that the growing generation was softer and possessed of less stamina than generations of the past.

"Moralists are telling us that there is a greater laxity in the manners and morals of the rising generation than there has been in any time in the past, and although I believe we can discount practically the whole indictment of the younger generation against the younger for the same sort of things have been said for the last thousand years, our mothers and fathers departed of us exactly in the same terms as theirs did of them, and we shall probably of our own young will there is certain lack of truth in some of these charges," she said.

"Now, the demagogues take many terms," she continued, "one of the most subtle and dangerous of which is the open violation of the law amendment that we are allowed to do exactly the same things and subvert the law, a repeated statement of law by any group, in the large or small, is a threat to law and order, and in its turn to the entire community."

Mrs. Pinchot said that the battle of the government of Pennsylvania was essentially a referendum on the liquor question. She then turned to New York state and the repeal of the Miller-Gage law. Governor Smith, she asserted, "never failed to make a slip of the tongue, the legislature, and it is very sad that he played correctly for the demise of this liquor law."

"I don't mean to attack Governor Smith, for in many ways I think he has been a fine outstanding governor. I am merely trying to show that the better of long day is a constant talking in the hands of politicians as they lead from their country."

TIMOTHY DONOHUE DEAD

Well Known Citizen Died Sunday at Hospital After Brief Illness

Timothy F. Donohue, for many years a well known and successful business man, died in St. John's hospital yesterday after a comparatively brief illness. Mr. Donohue, a prominent member of the Lowell lodge of Elks, Lowell Aerie of Eagles and the Washington club, had a host of friends in Lowell who will be grieved to learn of his death. Always congenial and willing to lend a helping hand to all, Mr. Donohue's death will be widely mourned. He was at one time a member of the old common council and maintained a hearty interest in the city's welfare even in his life as a private citizen.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Etna (Davine) Donohue; seven children, Joseph A. Donohue, seven daughters, the Misses Catherine, Mary, Dorothy, Eleanor, Grace, Estelle and Regina Donohue; five sisters, the Misses Mary and Helen Donohue, Mrs. T. D. Leonard, Mrs. Albert Rhodes and Mrs. Josephine McDermott; and three brothers, Danahy and Daniel of this city, and Jeffrey of Washington, D. C. # FUNERAL SERVICES FOR MICHAEL J. JOHNSON

The funeral of Michael J. Johnson, for 35 years organist in St. Patrick's church and well known generally in local musical circles, took place with impressive ceremony from his late home, 238 Suffolk street, at 9 o'clock this morning. An hour later, a solemn high mass was sung in St. Patrick's church with Rev. John J. McFarley, pastor, officiating. Rev. Thomas J. McDonough, as deacon, and Rev. James A. Sipple, D. D., as sub-deacon. Seated within the sanctuary during the services were Rev. John J. Shaw, pastor of St. Michael's church; Rev. James P. Lynch, Rev. Thomas J. Heagerty and Rev. Maynard G. Barry, O. M. I. of the Sacred Heart and Rev. John C. Duffy, O. M. I. of the Immaculate Conception.

As a tribute to the memory of the man who had faithfully and efficiently presided at the organ for more than two score years, there was no instrumental music during the mass, and a vacant chair at the organ, which had a short time before yielded to the musical touch of the deceased organist, stood as a mute testimonial of esteem for the departed musician.

Terry's requiem mass was inspiring rendered by an augmented choir representing every Catholic church in the city. The singing was sustained by James E. Donnelly and Edward E. Slattery, Jr., while Schmitt's "Domini Jesu Christi" at the offertory was sung by Mrs. James A. Murphy. The solo in the "Libera" was sustained by Frederick Cummings and the "De Profundis" by Timothy Finnegan. The bearers were Thomas Johnson, James O'Neil, Andrew McCarthy, Daniel S. O'Brien and Conchus O'Neil. Being a chartered member of Lowell council, 72, Knights of Columbus, practically every living charter member of that organization was in attendance at the funeral. The Lowell council delegates were Robert D. C. Thomas, P. E. K., John B. Hart, P. E. K., Dr. Hugh Walker, P. E. K., Michael Quinn, Patrick O'Leary and Humphrey O'Sullivan.

Interment was in St. Patrick's cemetery where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. McGaffey, assisted by Rev. Fr. McDonough, Rev. Fr. Sipple and Rev. Fr. Barry.

Funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertakers James P. O'Donnell and Sons.

BEAUTIFUL LK. OF C. HOME WRECKED BY FIRE

Biggest Fire in City's History

their arms. He was removed to St. John's hospital, where it was found his injuries consisted of a fractured nose and numerous bruises.

The death of Capt. Cunningham cast a spell of gloom over the hard-worked firemen and they went to the fire after the accident, fighting as against an enemy which was only waiting an opportunity to snuff out their lives, as the captain's life had been snuffed out.

All morning long hot air explosions occurred in the burning buildings and showered brick work down to the streets and several firemen were slightly injured. Fortunately, however, no one was seriously injured.

Fire Starts on Top Floor

The fire was discovered at 12:30 Sunday morning in a club room on the top floor of Associated building and appeared to be only a minor blaze. An alarm from box 12 sounded at 12:34 and companies responding attempted to quench the blaze with chemicals. The fire had evidently been carried throughout the upper section of the building by air shafts and in partitions for the whole upper floor suddenly burst into flames while firemen were actively engaged in quenching the supposedly minor fire in the club room.

First arrivals immediately recognized the seriousness of the fire's proportions and a second alarm was sounded at 12:41. Followed four minutes later by the general alarm. At 12:43 o'clock, daylight saving time, Lawrence and Dracut were appealed to for aid. The former sent two engines under Chief Morris, and Chief Gunther responded from Dracut with a triple combination and a hose wagon.

Spreads With Rapidity

The fire spread with great rapidity through the Associated building, but was being brought well under control when the whole wall on the Worthen street side of the building suddenly buckled and fell outwardly to the street.

Ladder Truck 3, the aerial ladder from the central station had taken its place there with all ladder equipment in position against the wall when the latter fell. Capt. Cunningham and his company were trapped. The unfortunate captain was on the aerial ladder directing his men and was swept to the street under the falling wall. He was quickly extricated by his devoted subordinates, who worked feverishly with a reckless disregard of the imminent possibility of being themselves buried under another avalanche of brick and mortar. He was rushed to the Corporation hospital, but died within a few moments of his arrival there.

Blow Struck Hoseman

The 75-foot aerial ladder, with Hoseman Gray strapped to the top, was pushed back by the weight of falling brick and wedged against the side of a building on the opposite corner. The hoseman was stunned by the blow, but recovered quickly, extricated himself from a crowd that had been galvanized into silence by the catastrophe to Capt. Cunningham and his men. The ladder truck was crushed under the ruins and reduced to a pile of junk.

Following the extrication of Capt. Cunningham and the men trapped with him by the tottering wall firemen entered the breach and attempted to quench the flames, regardless of their own personal danger, but their efforts were fruitless and the fallen wall offered an outlet and added draft for the flames and a blaze fully a hundred feet high rose from this opening, driving back by its heat all firemen on duty at that particular point.

Roof Collapses

The roof of the building collapsed quickly after the wall and sparks and flames mounted high in the air. Sparks, wafted by a gentle breeze, were carried onto neighboring buildings and several adjacent fires started.

The Academy of Music burst into flames within a few moments of the collapse of the Associated building roof and Sparks' stable was buried under ruins from the Associated roof and the back wall, which collapsed at about this time. The theatre provided excellent fuel for the flames and it was felt at this time that the Knights of Columbus building could not be saved, although great quantities of water were being poured upon it. Just as was feared, the latter building burst into flames shortly after 1 o'clock and within a few minutes was blazing fiercely throughout the upper half of the building.

With this building's burning and several others in grave peril from the flames the Lawrence and Dracut fire departments were appealed to for assistance.

Lawrence and Dracut Come

Lawrence, who had responded to box 12, and dispatched three triple combination pumping engines and a squad of police. The trip over the road was made in record time. Dracut's fire apparatus arrived at about the same time. The Lawrence engines arrived with this additional equipment Chief Saunders, an assistant engineer of the Lawrence building, tried to contain and stop the fire in Sparks' stable and the Knights of Columbus building.

The fire in the stable was quickly drawn out, but the other fires had now become a serious problem. The roof of the Knights of Columbus building, caved in, a cloud of smoke and the fire quickly communicated to the small building occupied by the H. P. Wood Bros., located between the Academy building and the Knights home. Before the fire was extinguished in the gas the small building was completely destroyed.

Recall at 12:45 Yesterday

The fire was not out at this time by any means, but it was sufficiently under control for the local fire department to handle. All morning long, an unrelenting downpour of rain was directed upon the ruins of the several destroyed buildings and it was not until 12:45 yesterday afternoon that the recall was sounded.

During the morning sections of the walls of Associated building fell to the ground, endangering the lives of the firemen, and made the work of drowning out the ruin very dangerous.

Mere Shells Remain

With the sounding of the recall, all that was left of Associated building was the brick front, all other walls having collapsed. The rear section of the Monahan building was a ruin, the roof having caved in and several of the floors having done likewise. The roof of the Knights of Columbus was gone and the whole upper section which formerly housed the gymnasium and hall was but a mass of blackened ruins.

The bare front wall of Associated swayed slightly in the wind and threatened at any time to crash into Merrimack street. Before electric cars or automobiles were allowed to pass the building a crew of expert building workers braced the shell so that if it did fall, it would fall into the ruins of the building and not endanger persons passing in the street.

Availance of Ruins

Where formerly stood the Academy of Music was but a pile of brick and burned timbers and the section of Sparks' stable located near to the Associated building was buried under a pile of bricks which had formerly been the rear wall of Associated.

Fire Lines Established by Police

The efficient handling by the police of the immense crowds who rushed to the fire upon the sounding of the general alarm met with warm commendation on every side. The whole night shift of police had just completed their tour of duty when the general alarm was sounded. They were ordered to immediately establish fire lines. Assisted by many of the day shift men who were awakened by the alarm, lines were established at a safe distance from the fire and the firemen saved interference from spectators.

Horses Saved

Twenty-seven horses in Sparks' stable were led to safety by Ambulance Driver Gill and Officer Oryan when it was seen that the stable was doomed. The horses were nervous and difficult to handle and the last one had been out of the stable but a few minutes when the rear wall of Associated building crashed down onto the old structure.

Motor Vehicle, Inspector Loupratt saved his report from his office on the second floor of the Monahan building. Later, with Charles McDerrett, chief clerk of the office, he requested the records to city hall, where a temporary office was opened for business at 5 o'clock this morning.

At 1:16 o'clock an alarm was sounded from box 113 by a person who saw the flames and took the fire in that vicinity. Apparatus responded only to find there was no fire.

Sparks Set Several Fires

The dense cloud of sparks which filled the sky when the roof of Associated building collapsed drifted over the center of the city and set fire to an awning of the Lowell Gas Light company in Shattuck street and also to the roof of the Parkview hotel at Tower's corner, near Essex's square. A heavy company quickly extinguished both of these fires.

Crowds View Ruins

News of the fire spread quickly. At day yesterday Merrimack street was filled with machine bearing out-lookers anxious to view the ruins and to see people who had not heard the alarm in the morning. Police were kept busy on duty. At the fire the crowd at Merrimack street and the number of machines as well as 5,000.

Had Narrow Escape

Thousands of people gathered at the scene yesterday morning and there were no serious procession of sight-seers all day long. At 11:08 o'clock, a crowd of spectators on the Merrimack street side were heard to gasp and scream as the brick partition in the north side of the Associated building facing Worthen street was seen to sway partly with the breeze and then topple to the street, landing with a resounding crash.

The debris landed on the exact spot where Henry Douglas, a water department employee, a moment before was sitting off water in a hydrant in the street, under the direction of Robert Gardner, superintendent of the water department. A group of newspapermen

EARLY MORNING FIRE CAUSES LOSS ESTIMATED OVER $800,000

PICTURE OF THE FIRE TAKEN AT 3 O'CLOCK SUNDAY MORNING

FIRE CRACKED GLASS ON THE CITY HALL CLOCK

Some idea of the intense heat created by the devastating flames at yesterday's conflagration may be gained from the fact that the faces on the City Hall clock were cracked thereby.

Biggest Fire in City's History

When close by endeavoring to get a near view of the ruins, and all had a narrow escape up an adjoining alley which had been cleared of spectators by Lieut. Martin Connors of the police department but a few moments previous. Where Mr. Douglas stood, a huge piece of solid granite and a mass of yellow brick landed with a deafening thud. As the possibility was ever imminent that other parts of the walls were likely to give in without warning, the police and fire-fighters exercised great care in keeping the crowd at a safe distance.

Fire started again. Shortly after midnight this morning, flames were discovered under the ruins of the main stairway of Associate building and a still alarm was sounded at the Beacon street firehouse by Police Lieut. Fravelly and Officer Daniel Lynch. The blaze was hard to get at and firemen were engaged for over an hour before the flames were finally extinguished.

Cantor & Co. carried the insurance on the Brunswick shoe store.

NO CLEW AS TO CAUSE OF FIRE

STREET RAILWAY WIRES SHUT OFF

Supt. Thomas J. Sayers and Line Supt. James Farrell of the street railway company with a crew of firemen were on the scene of the fire upon the sounding of the general alarm and power in all street railway lines in the vicinity of the burning buildings was ordered shut off so that firemen could not be endangered by live wires.

RUSHED TO SIDE OF DYING CAPTAIN

As the huge north wall of the Associate building on Warthen street tumbled in during the course of the conflagration, toppling backward, the ladder upon which Capt. Edward J. P. Cunningham was perched and throwing him to the ground, Rev. Appleton Grannis, pastor of St. Anne's Episcopal church, who had been an anxious spectator and fearful for the safety of the firemen battling the flames in a perilous position, rushed to the fire captain's side and gave religious solace.

Although Capt. Cunningham is a Catholic by faith, the pious words of Rev. Grannis were witnessed by thousands of citizens, who lauded the popular fireman for his prompt coming to the stricken fireman in a noble effort to offer religious sustenance in his last hour. The pastor attended the dying fire-fighter until a priest, Rev. Dr. McGarry, pastor of St. Patrick's church, came to administer the last rites.

All morning services in St. Anne's church yesterday. Rev. Grannis was the center of the heroism of the gallant Capt. Cunningham and all the members of the Lowell fire department, who are always ready to give all that others may live.

FORMED VOLUNTEER COMMISSARY OUTFIT

Their beautiful new home inevitably doomed to destruction, the Knights of Columbus did not despair. Not long after the flames had eaten their way into the building and made all chance of its salvation an impossibility, several members of the organization were on hand to lend whatever assistance they could. Visions of the historic work done by the "Caseys" in the World war were revived with characteristic simplicity when Grand Knight Frank A. Groves, Deputy Grand Knight John J. Flannery, Lecturer Edward E. Slattery, Jr., Joseph Sheehy, Joseph Duffy, James Kane and George Groves, formed a volunteer commissary and served coffee, doughnuts and sandwiches to the fatigued fire and police men from early morning until after 10 o'clock.

The delegation of Knights, headed by Grand Knight Groves, has returned from the State K. of C. banquet in Boston, where they had listened to brilliant compliments concerning the magnificence of the Lowell home.

OFFER K. OF C. USE OF ROOMS

When the news of the destruction of the beautiful home of Lowell City K. of C. spread throughout the city, Grand Knight Frank Groves began to receive a number of offers from local organizations and hall owners for the use of their rooms. Rev. Dr. McGarry, pastor, and Rev. Fr. McDonough of St. Patrick's were first to come forth. They volunteered the use of the U. Y. M. C. rooms, Harold Chaffoux, president of the J. L. Chaffoux Co., offered the third floor of the Phoenix building in Prescott street. Mr. Groves said today that in addition to the above, the following houses had been offered for the disposal of the Knights: the C.M.A., Elks, Crescent Rink, Y.M.C.A., Mathews, and South End rooms. Grand Knight Groves is deeply grateful to all.

DID NOT REQUIRE CANAL WATER

Considerable criticism was heard on the street during the fire yesterday that the canal in Dutton street was empty during the progress of the fire. From the office of the Leaks and Cunniff this morning it is learned that employees of the company were on duty yesterday morning and if Chief Saunders had requested that the canal be filled his request would have been complied with immediately. Chief Saunders, however, was of the opinion that the city water supply was sufficient and did not request that the canal be filled.

TRAFFIC VERY HEAVY HERE YESTERDAY

Traffic in the downtown section of the city yesterday was the heaviest since the explosion in South Lowell of the powder plant of the United States Cartridge company 20 years ago, in the opinion of police and street railway officials.

News of the big fire spread quickly throughout eastern Massachusetts and Southern New Hampshire and automobiles crowded with sightseers, headed toward this city. On the boulevards leading to the city were continuous lines of machines while in Merrimack, central, Prescott and Market streets there was not a moment during the day that there were at least several hundred machines headed toward the scene of the fire.

Police Chief Atkinson estimated the crowd at several hundred thousand and estimated the number of machines at nearly ten thousand. As an example of the heavy traffic, street railway officials said that a car bound for the city was on time at the Memorial Auditorium yesterday afternoon, but was 20 minutes late on reaching the square.

The day shift of police was called out at 6 o'clock yesterday morning and relieved the men of the night shift who had been on duty since the beginning of the fire. Traffic officers were on duty on all the above mentioned streets and handled the traffic as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

NO DEFINITE PLANS FOR THE FUTURE

Frank A. Groves, grand knight of Lowell council, Knights of Columbus, stated this noon that nothing definite concerning the future plans of the organization are known at present. Through the press and membership circulars, the grand knight promises to make known any plans. A decree which was to have been conducted this evening, will be held in another hall at a date to be announced later. Mr. Groves, in behalf of the members of the K. of C., especially expresses his appreciation of the many generous offers of temporary headquarters made by other organizations and private citizens.

STARS AND STRIPES ARE STILL WAVING

During the mad-dash of fire and falling stone, the Stars and Stripes on the K. of C. building hung suspended from the mast over the Dutton street entrance. At times concealed from view by the dense volumes of smoke that swept over the building, the flag nevertheless, withstood the attack and still waves with the breeze, perhaps the only original piece of equipment not consumed in the catastrophe.

MAYOR'S TRIBUTE TO CAPTAIN CUNNINGHAM

Among the many friends and admirers of Captain Cunningham, the heroic fire-fighter who met death at his post of duty during the fire Sunday, was Mayor John J. Donovan. The mayor this morning expressed his regret at the passing of Capt. Cunningham, a lifelong friend.

FIRE TODAY IN WASTE COMPANY'S PLANT

Bales of cotton waste in the second floor of the Northern Waste Company's plant, located in the yard of the Dike-Hartford Company in Market street, burst into flame shortly after 10 o'clock this morning and threatened for a few minutes the whole mill building.

Automatic sprinklers, assisted by local firemen summoned by box 212 at 10:08 o'clock, limited the fire to the bales of waste in which the fire started, no vegetable fat. No cotton was damaged. No estimate of the damage could be given at the Waste Company's office this morning. It was said the water damage would greatly exceed the fire damage.

Upon the arrival of the fire apparatus, dense quantities of black smoke were pouring from windows on the second floor of the building and it was feared another disastrous fire was in progress. Several hose lines were brought into action quickly and, with the sprinklers, sufficient water was poured on the burning waste to put the fire quickly under control.

The recall was sounded at 10:25 o'clock but one company of firemen stayed at the plant for nearly half an hour after the recall putting out minor fires which appeared in bales of waste stored on the floor and in throwing out the burning and burned material into the alley.

TOOK THINGS OUT OF HARM'S WAY

When the fire broke into the Mongeau building yesterday morning, firemen and civilians entered the stores and offices and salvaged vast quantities of materials, which were placed in the Y. M. C. A. building. Practically the entire contents of the Richards Art Shop, the Peitler jewelry store and the Smoke shop were saved in this manner. The York club threw open its doors to firemen and served coffee and doughnuts throughout the morning.

Service rendered by the telephone company was excellent. Several operators, upon hearing the general alarm, went to the office of their own accord and assisted the girls on duty there in handling the thousands of calls which came in during the early morning.

CARRIED INSURANCE

E. Gaston Campbell carried the insurance on the stock and fixtures of The Richards Art Shop in the Mongeau building, and also insurance on the Geneva club building.

KEPT SEWERS OPEN

Streets Superintendent Delbert called a sewer crew of twenty men to work Sunday to keep sewers free and clear. Due to the efforts of the crew, there were no blocks of importance and sewers functioned well despite the heavy load which was put upon them.

MET A HERO'S DEATH

Capt. Cunningham Was Gallant Fire-Fighter and Splendid Type of Man

Today the entire personnel of the fire department and many civilians are in mourning for Capt. Edward P. Cunningham of Engine 6, who met a hero's death in the performance of duty Sunday morning at the Associate building fire.

It is doubtful if there was a man in the department who was more popular with his fellow workers than Captain Cunningham.

CAPT. EDWARD P. CUNNINGHAM

Cunningham. He was always willing to assist any fireman who needed help, always had a kind word when things were going wrong, and a smile when things were at the breaking point. Working on the aerial ladder in Woburn street yesterday morning, it is undoubtedly true that he realized his own danger. He saw the brick wall buckle before any of his men and shouted to firemen on the ladders and on the street below to get out of the way before attempting to save himself. With everyone but the fireman who was strapped on the ladder saved, he started for the street himself, but the wall saved outwards before he reached safety and he was swept to the street amid a shower of brick and mortar. He was alive when his frantic comrades reached him, but died shortly after arriving at the Corporation hospital.

Chief Saunders' Tribute
Capt. Cunningham was appointed a permanent fireman in 1911, promoted to lieutenant in 1918 and to captain in 1922. Chief Saunders was visibly affected over Capt. Cunningham's death and said, "He was a splendid young man, a clean and sterling character, a fire-fighter, fearless, and devoted to his duty. His loss the department cannot be measured in words. Captain Cunningham was a most capable officer." He continued, "and I valued his services very, very highly. I sympathize deeply with his family at this time in their loss."

Captain Cunningham was at the head of the movement for the instruction of the children among school children and was also active in the Firemen's Relief association. He resided at 104 Mammoth road and was an attendant of St. Columba's church, where he was a member of the Holy Name society. He leaves behind his wife, Helen P. (Keefer) Cunningham, three children, John, Helen and Pauline Cunningham; two brothers, Walter J. of Lowell and Joseph H. Cunningham of Beverly; and an aunt, Mrs. Mary Provender. The body was removed to his home by Undertakers James P. O'Donnell & Sons.

BRIEF HISTORY OF ASSOCIATE BUILDING

Associate building, which was reduced to a mass of ruins by yesterday's disastrous blaze, was opened to public inspection in 1922 and was financed and erected by a group of business associates, Joseph E. Jones and John H. Humphrey, O'Sullivan, James Trebilcock and the late John Donovan, a former mayor. A five-story brick building, it was the first fireproof structure in downtown Lowell, built by the late John Donovan, president of the board, was the contractor.

The Knights of Columbus were among the first occupants of the building, occupying rooms on the fifth floor. Later they moved to Anne street, but returned again to Associate building. The building was a short time ago to their Boston street home which also collapsed yesterday's devastating flames.

The building, which was involved in the fire, was built by the late John H. Humphrey, O'Sullivan, James Trebilcock and the late John Donovan, a former mayor. A five-story brick building, it was the first fireproof structure in downtown Lowell, built by the late John Donovan, president of the board, was the contractor.

The building was built in October, 1922, when the site formerly occupied by the Montgomery Clothing Co. was divided into four lots at an expense of $200,000. New steel-clas partitions installed and the appearance of the first floor of the building changed.

LIFE BELT SAVED FIREMAN GRAY

The life belts used by the firemen in climbing the ladders, and one of which was instrumental in saving Fireman Gray from a fatal fall, were introduced to the local department by Chief Saunders when he took office several years ago. The belts, containing a swivel arrangement, have proved a great help in fighting fires of yesterday's magnitude. A brand new belt was recently delivered to the chief and it was one of these new belts that Fireman Gray was wearing when his ladder plunged against the building in Warthen street.

BERGDOLL IS MISSING BODY OF MME. DUSE LIES IN STATE

Relatives Anxious About His Whereabouts—May Be in Switzerland

BERGdoll, Baden, April 25.—The relatives of Graver Cleveland Bergdoll profess to be a bit anxious about his whereabouts. He left here April 6 for an automobile trip without giving a hint to anyone where he was going. He was accompanied by several armed companions, but no member of the party has sent back any word since his departure.

Bergdoll's relatives assert that he never tells them of his plans before starting on trips, and they assume he possibly went to Switzerland. They say all his personal effects are still here, but they do not believe he has started for America.

ARRIVED JUST IN TIME FOR FIRE

Mayor Donovan, Chief Saunders, Principal Assessor James E. Donnelly and Councilman James E. Hennessey, who arrived in Boston Saturday evening to attend the state council, Knights of Columbus, arrived at about 11:15 o'clock and arrived at the fire just as the last alarm was being sounded. The chief remained at the fire until late last evening and Mayor Donovan was at the fire until 6 o'clock Sunday morning.

CARRIED INSURANCE
Fred J. Church & Company carried nearly $200,000 insurance on Associate building, which is owned by John E. Rogers, the Sprague estate, and carriage shed, owned by the estate of J. C. Ayer, the stock of the Mongeau Shoe Store, the office furniture of Dr. Robert L. Jones, and the T. C. Entwistle company, which was only slightly damaged by fire and water.

A Perfect Skin

No blackheads, no blemishes ever
BY EDNA WALLACE HOPPER

Mine is a perfect skin—a skin which young girls envy. After 12 years as a stage star, I look like a girl of 12.

I owe all this to a rich, nutritious mother. She searched the world for methods to multiply my beauty and to keep her youth. These helped make me a famous beauty, and they keep me a beauty still.

Now I have arranged so every girl and woman may have these identical helps. Thus I hope to bring to millions the benefits I feel.

My Facial Youth

One is a liquid cleanser which I call my Facial Youth. It contains no and not damaged. No cream of the hair on the face. It cannot assimilate in any way with the skin.

It simply cleanses the skin to the depths, penetrates every pore. When I wipe it off, all the dirt and grime, all that clogs the skin comes with it.

Clean the skin in the best other way you know. My Facial Youth will still remove much extra grime and refuse.

I cover my body with Facial Youth

HELD THEIR ANNUAL BANQUET IN BOSTON

Nearly 100 active alumni members of the Beta chapter of the Delta Kappa Phi Greek letter fraternity of the Lowell Textile school, attended the 22nd annual banquet and get-together at Young's hotel in Boston, Saturday evening. The members had a royal good time, with a banquet, entertainment and reception. George A. Boyd, one of the older members of the local chapter, was toastmaster and called upon everyone at the banquet to say a few words. Souvenirs in the shape of leather playing card cases, were distributed.

An interesting feature of the annual jubilation was the appearance of Edward Ruelow of Worcester, a great benefactor of Lowell Textile as well as the Greek letter fraternity organization. Next year he promised to provide the banquet free of expense to the alumni members, because "1925 would mark his twentieth year out of school." The anniversary committee in charge of the Saturday night rally included Roger Beck, chairman; Maurice Villeneuve, Harry Gwinnett and William Rivers.

Chamber of Commerce Directors Consider Such a Step Not Desirable Now

Lowell chamber of commerce directors, in special meeting this afternoon, officially balloted upon fourteen important questions involving the future of railroad transportation in the United States, unanimously endorsing thirteen of the articles presented by the national chamber for approval or rejection. Action was unanimous on the thirteen.

The local business organization does not approve the consolidation of New England railroads at this time, particularly under the specifications as referred to the Lowell chamber for decision. Lowell chamber directors favor the national chamber's recommendation that the country's transportation policy should aid at development and maintenance of an adequate system of rail, water and highway transportation with full co-operative service of all agencies that will contribute to economy and efficiency. Approval is given today by the directors of further suggestions as follows:

The committee recommends that the important principles of the transportation act of 1920 should be continued without change until there has been further experience. It also recommends that the principal of reciprocity of a fair proportion of excess railroad earnings should be maintained in the public interest as essential to the rule of rate-making.

Lowell chamber is not in favor of consolidating New England railroads just yet, and so article 1 was opposed. This was a suggestion recommending supplementary legislation in harmony with the general principles of the transportation act to facilitate consolidation by voluntary action, subject to the approval of the interstate commerce commission.

Other suggestions approved this afternoon by the local directors, covered such important recommendations as the policy of connecting and coordinating terminal facilities, with provisions for joint use, and the applying of this principle as rapidly as practicable; problems of regulation of common carriers through legislation, necessarily inelastic, such problems to be handled by properly constituted federal and state administrative agencies.

The remaining articles, all approved, covered a wide range of subject matter from the more equitable sharing by railroads of general tax burdens, the subjecting to regulation by the state and federal commissions of rates and services of motor common carriers, both freight and passenger, having particular in view insuring to the public adequate, economical and continuous service.

Optional store-door collection and delivery with reasonable and separately itemized trucking charges in the published tariffs, is endorsed with the suggestion that this system be established as rapidly as possible by agreement between carriers and shippers, beginning at the centers of greatest congestion.

There are articles covering traffic matters relating to inland waterways, with recommendation that would call for continuing operation of the barge lines on the Mississippi and Warrior rivers in accordance with good commercial practice. It is suggested that army engineers make a comprehensive survey at once and present a definite plan and schedule of priorities for waterway development. This would bring an official study and new survey of conditions in the Merrimack river valley.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, April 28.—Stock prices moved irregularly at the opening of today's market, with realizing sales causing fractional recessions in some motor, oil and sugar shares. Price movements of the industrial leaders were mixed. American Can moving up and U. S. Steel falling back 1 1/2.

Resumption of professional bear attacks against the steel shares, based on reports of further price concessions later unsettled the entire market. Losses of 1 to 2 points were registered by Gulf States Steel, Baldwin, Studebaker, American Woolen, DuPont, Colorado Fuel and General Electric. American Can also came under selling pressure, and was forced down a point. U. S. Steel fell 1 1/2 points, after advancing 1 1/2 to a new high level for the year at 50 3/4, broke 3 1/2 points. Norfolk & Western and several low priced railroad issues gained fractionally. Foreign exchanges opened firm.

Professionals who experimented on the short side of the market found there was apparently little buying power except at considerable concessions and accordingly directed their attacks against shares which largely govern the general market's trend. U. S. Steel was hammered down 3 points to 38, and losses of 2 1/2 to 5 points were established by over a dozen other issues, among which were American Can, Baldwin, American Woolen and DuPont. U. S. Steel subsequently rallied to 38 1/2, and a few other shares also made feeble recoveries.

Pleasing Recital
of applause from the gathering. As did her rendition of "H. Neger," a light, fantastic sketch by Benbow.
Miss Rita Breaux, pianist, of Providence, R. I., well known artist, was most entertaining throughout the recital, both in her solo numbers and as accompanist of the evening. Her initial renditions, two sketches from Debussy, in which she executed the most difficult of passages, notably the cross-hand movement in "Reveries dans l'enfer," elicited much applause from her admirers.

Mr. William Bloddeau, noted violinist, and a pupil of Concertmaster Burgin of Boston, who has given numerous recitals in Portland, Me., Boston, and other cities, was last evening warmly applauded by the audience as he interpreted numerous selections, one being "Gondoliers," latest violin sketch with piano accompaniment, by Louis Napoleon Gaultier, and last evening played publicly for the first time.

Among the many renditions of the evening, Mr. Bloddeau gave, "On Wings of Song," the ever popular composition. "Le Nil," a trio, in which Miss Breaux, Miss Gaudette and Mr. Bloddeau participated, was a most striking number. Miss Gaudette sustaining the solo. She was assisted by Miss Breaux as accompanist, while the violin obbligato was played by Mr. Bloddeau.

As an encore to this number, "Song," by Massenet, was most willingly offered by the trio.

The program in full follows:—

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 3

The great beast walked right up to Jack and stuck his trunk in the boy's pocket. Jack knew what he was after. In a second the trunk came out again and it had several peanuts in it. After these were transferred to the elephant's mouth, the trunk dropped down into the pocket again.

In no time at all, all of Jack's peanuts were gone. Then the elephant suddenly reached down and grabbed Jack around the waist. Jack thought the elephant was mad because he had no more peanuts, and he was afraid he was going to hurt. Flip, in the meantime, set to barking.

Almost before Jack realized what had happened, he was sitting safely on the great elephant's back. Then a man came running up. "Here, son, you'll have to get down so this beast can help us unload these other cars." Jack didn't know just how he was going to obey. (Continued.)

Gum Chewing Aids the Teeth

You have the authority of doctors and dentists for this statement. Your own experience will prove it, if you will use WRIGLEY'S after every meal.

The following quotations from a recent work on teeth and health are worth remembering:

"Dentists have found that the exercise of gum chewing brings about a better nutrition of the teeth . . ."

"The cleansing action of the gum between the teeth helps to keep them free from the particles which lodge in the crevices and cause decay."

The busy man—or woman either—rarely has time to clean the teeth after eating. Yet they should be cleaned, and

K. OF C. CLUB HOUSE IN HISTORIC BUILDING

The destruction of the Knights of Columbus home in Dutton street in Sunday morning's fire takes away from the city one of its most historic landmarks.

Prior to being used as the knights' home, the building housed a church and prior to that time from the earliest days of the city, it was the home of the Middlesex Mechanics association.

It was in 1824 that the Mechanics association was presented the lot of land on which a year later was erected the building which has featured so prominently in the city's life. All owners joined with members of the Middlesex Mechanics association in contributing funds for the building and upon its completion, the Mechanics association began a very important career. For many years lecture courses were provided for the general public and the best orators in the land came here to talk on subjects of the moment. Its library and reading room, amply equipped, also drew large numbers of Lowell residents. For 40 years or more the association quarters served as a clearing house of literary and scientific culture, for one thing, and a place where men could resort for study, debate and mental recreation.

With the waning of interest in the old-time association, the modern trend being away from this kind of institution, came new dwellers in the famous building. When the First Congregational church society, Rev. George F. Kennigott, pastor, took the loyal adherents of his flock away from the First church fold and into the Dutton street building and formed the Trinitarian society.

Then came the World war and the Dutton street building housed war workers and the American Legion for a considerable period of time. With the completion of the World war, the Knights of Columbus chose this building as the site of their new home and purchased it. The entire interior of the building was altered and, from an obsolete structure, it became the modern home of one of the largest organizations in the city. It was completed and occupied last year.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC WAS FIRST LOCAL THEATRE

Many long-dormant but ever-fragrant memories were revived yesterday when the news of the destruction of the historic Academy of Music spread quickly through the city and county.

Older Lowell knew this institution of public concourse when it was in the heyday of popularity—adorned, cherished, held as a centering place for science and gratifying entertainment and amply supplying the needs of a discriminating public catering preferably to the very highest type of dramatic entertainments of a bygone period.

Well known Lowell families, now grown to maturity, but still active in the general community activities and advancement program of the city in which we live, remember the days far away and long ago when the Academy of Music, originally music hall, held the admiration and regular patronage of citizens of every class in industrial Lowell. For in the days when Music hall held the throne of local amusement, no class lines were drawn when American and European theatrical stars of the ante-Civil war period came to this city in the course of a New England itinerary.

In using a home in Lowell today, whose descendants of well known men of the earlier business pioneer life of the community still live and cherish relics of the things that were, are treasured as articles without price, rare Music hall theatrical programs, printed in the rough make-up style, with ancient type of wooden "cast" and ill-printed on the old hand press.

Historians will find printed upon some of these "hand bills" as they used to be called back in the theatrical days after the Civil war, the casts of characters of such venerable players as "East Lynne," "The People's Lawyer," "Reckless," "The Iron Chest" and, greatest of all, perhaps, "Hamlet," with Edwin Forrest in the wonderful cast. The brother, Julius Brutus Booth appeared later in "Katharine and Petruchio."

"East Lynne" was presented in Music hall in the year 1869. Edwin Forrest came to Lowell about that time, also. Other names familiar in theatrical fields just after the Civil war, included Mrs. P. V. Bower, Mme. Janaussek, John T. Owens and other lesser lights, some of whom reached higher fields in the theatrical spectrum in later years, but others whose only appearance in Lowell was to prove their last.

Music hall was erected by Major Henry Emory, then proprietor of Lowell's famous hostelry, the Merrimack house. The theatre was opened in the autumn of 1857 by the Boston Theatre company, a "stock" which was playing at the Boston theatre regularly when not on route through New England on "extra." Charles E. Thorne, Jr., stellar romantic actor, was in the leading role when the stock company came to Lowell.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, In the wisdom of Almighty God the silence of death has suddenly sealed the lips of our esteemed brother officer, Martin Conaway of Middlesex County Deputy Sheriffs and Court Officers Association, recognize that they have lost a genial and faithful friend who has performed many public duties in an efficient, able and courteous manner.

Born February 8, 1850, he served his native town as Selectman and Chief of its Police Department for many years. He was appointed a Deputy Sheriff of Middlesex County, November 6, 1914, and during the World war rendered valuable service to his State and Country as head of the Special Police Department at the United States Cambridge company at Lowell, where he had charge of a large force of men entrusted with great responsibilities.

His death, April 23, 1921, in the presence of several members of this organization, with whom he was preparing to open the Court session at Lowell for the day, was a fitting way to being a close such a record of public service as his.

THEREFORE, Be It Resolved that the Middlesex County Deputy Sheriffs and Court Officers Association, extend its sincere sympathy to the members of the family of the late Martin Conaway and direct that a copy of this Resolution be inscribed upon the record of the Association and that copies be sent to the family of the deceased and to the Press.

Big Welcome to High School Boys

person to greet them was a representative of this paper and a photographer. Word was at once sent to the school and arrangements for the reception were speeded up.

When the parade got under way from the depot there were about 400 in line, mostly high school boys and girls, with the team members, Mrs. Pearson, Mr. Delaney and Mr. Preston of the school committee and other school officials riding in automobiles. At the head of the line was a platoon of police in charge of Sgt. Michael H. Wilson and including Officers Kegan, Leach, Maloney and W. Liston. Then came the high school band in charge of Bandmaster Giblin. The automobiles came next and were followed by the school pupils on foot. A huge "L.H.S." banner had a prominent place in the line and throughout the march cheer leaders kept calling for more noise and more acclaim.

On city hall steps Mr. Conway voiced the appreciation of the school for the splendid manifestation of interest shown in the team and said that with such a spirit, athletics at the high school cannot fail. He presented Mayor John J. Donovan, who spoke for the city and said how proud everyone was at what the boys had accomplished. Mr. Harris said the boys acquitted themselves nobly on and off the track and by their actions reflected credit upon the school and the city. He said it was a pleasure to have in charge of such a fine group of boys. Coach Haggerty was deeply appreciative of the reception and gave all credit to the boys of the team. The honors heaped upon the high school boys today are richly deserved. From every possible angle their running at the carnival reflected credit and honor upon the school, the city and themselves. It was their first experience in "big league" competition and they went through the refining process in good shape.

This was the first trip of any appreciable length ever taken by a high school athletic team and it was the stiffest series of tests to which the boys could be subjected. With one or two possible exceptions, such as Andover academy, the competitors were from the best and strongest high and preparatory schools in the country and in two of the events in which Lowell was entered, the middle and two-mile relays, only preparatory school teams finished ahead of them. The mile event came at the end of Saturday's program, soon after the Latham twins had run in the two-mile race and the pace was too swift and too gruelling and Lowell paid the penalty of too much competition. Seven teams started and finished in the following order: Brooklyn Technical high, Lakeside high, Medford high, Newark Central high, Hamilton Collegiate Institute, Newton high, Lowell high.

OBSERVANCE OF EASTER SUNDAY

Special services were conducted in the new Transfiguration church at the corner of Paige and John streets yesterday in observance of Easter Sunday. The membership of the church is composed of members of the local Greek community, who recently seceded from the Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox church, and is in charge of Rev. Dr. Andreades, formerly of Chicago.

The church building, which was for many years the Central Methodist church, was recently leased by a faction of the local Greek community and will be utilized by them as a place of worship until their new proposed church is erected. The congregation numbers about 1500 and is headed by a board of directors composed of the following: John Vlahos, Emmanuel Kokas, George Zepos, Demetrios Kallis and Constantine Malleourtis.

The church is affiliated to the Greek church of America, the Holy Synod of which is composed of Archbishop Alexander of New York, Bishop Joachim of Boston and Bishop Joannides of Chicago.

The new congregation recently purchased the old Bartlett school site at the junction of Clark street and Hancock avenue and it is expected that work on the proposed new church will be started before the cold weather sets in. It was kind today by a prominent member of the community that it is the intention of the board of directors to erect a modern church on the site, which is an ideal location for a place of worship. Funds will be raised among the members of the church and the work will be rushed along.

The pastor of the new church, Rev. Fr. Andreades, D.D., was for many years located at Constantinople. A few years ago he came to this country and located at Seattle, Washington, and later looked after the spiritual welfare of his people at Savannah, Ga. He is a linguist and a man of high education. He pursued his studies at the St. Petersburg seminary in Russia and was ordained at Constantinople.

FIRE ALARMS

At 9:15 o'clock this morning, a telephone alarm to the Central fire station summoned apparatus to the ruins of Associate building where work about a bay window was on fire. Hose 8 responded to the alarm and quickly extinguished the fire. A shed at 137 Wentworth avenue, used as a garage, was badly damaged by fire early this morning. Lowell was pitted against Medford high, Huntington school, Mercesburg academy, Lower Merion high school and Hamilton Collegiate. The Lowell team of Dave Latham, Ernest Latham, Burke and Pearson outraced Medford and Lower Merion, but had to take dust from Huntington, Hamilton and Mercesburg, three strong prep school quartets.

It was a soul-stirring race, with all competing teams having a part in forcing Huntington to break the American record by 5 1-5 seconds. The Boston four of Carney, Wood, Clark and Dooley traveled the distance in 8 minutes, 17 1-5 seconds, against the record of 5 minutes 22 2-5 seconds made by Cedar Rapids high school in 1921. Lowell finishing in fourth place, was inside of the old record, which tells the story of how fast the Huntington team was pushed.

Dave Latham ran first for Lowell and was pace-setter for a lay and a half. The boys behind him then surged out in front, but he held on and in a brilliant finish sent his brother Ernest away in third place, right on the heels of the leaders. Lowell was in fourth place when Burke began his relay and that place was kept to the end, although Pearson fought all the way to the worst of it to get into third position, but without success.

The one-mile relay for the American championship was run off at 5:12 p. m. The Lowell team was Daley, E. Latham, D. Latham and Slavin, running in that order. They gradually slipped behind and before the race was half over were hopelessly out of it as far as placing was concerned. But they already had done a lot of running and at the carnival in future years, two races, one on each day, will be sufficient. Two events are enough for any high school team in such company.

WORLD'S CHAMPIONS SWAMP ATHLETICS AND ASCEND LADDER

Tigers Hold Lead—Cobb Steals Home for Second Time This Season—Giants Top National League by Full Game—Red Sox Pull Triple Play

NEW YORK, April 28.—The season's biggest baseball crowd—55,000—was here today when the Yankees won their seventh consecutive victory and stop the push of Connie Mack's Athletics, 11 to 2. The world's champions landed in second place, a half game behind Detroit.

Across the bridge in Brooklyn, the Giants came from behind to win, 9 to 5, over the Dodgers. The victory counted for five Robin scores with two home runs. The victory gave McGraw's team a full game lead over Chicago.

Detroit went into the necks and crannies of the sports to retain its American league lead. Ty Cobb stole home for the second time this season, and in the ninth, with the bases full, Pratt wheeled Lyons for a pass and the run that gave the Tigers a 1 to 0 victory over Chicago.

The first triple play of the major league season was executed by the

WINNER MEETS MURPHY AMATEUR BOXING BOUTS LOWELL HIGH BEATEN

"Bud" Dempsey and Newport Johnny Brown to Clash Here Thursday

"Bud" Dempsey of New York, one of the most popular out-of-town boxers ever to appear here, will be welcomed back to the Springfield city on next Thursday night, when he meets another favorite, Newport Johnny Brown, in the main event of the Moody club card in Crescent rink.

Dempsey created a sensation here when he defeated Sailor Hyman, N. Y. welterweight champion. He also defeated Charlie Mandy of New Bedford a few months ago. But it was in his bout with Billy Murphy that he carried his record into the hearts of the local fans.

He gave Murphy a stiff battle, carrying the fight to the Lowell boys and ending in a series of spirited exchanges, but Murphy outscored him and had a lead at the end. When the final gong sounded Dempsey rushed over to Murphy, grabbed his hand and raised it in acknowledgment of defeat. It was a gesture of sportsmanship, an innovation in local boxing, and it brought Dempsey into immediate favor.

Since last appearing here Dempsey has been hitting the high spots and has been named Eddie Mead, chief of his management, to appear in the main event of the Casino A. C. show in Lowell on Monday night. Immediately after the bout he will resume training for his Lowell battle.

Brown is well and favorably known here, where he has won many titles. His most notable achievement was the scoring of a knockdown on Al Shubert of New Bedford. Brown has also fought Murphy. As the winner of the bout has been promised a match with the Lowell star, added interest centers in the coming match.

Vic Liver of Lowell and Pat Hance of Haverhill are the early to renew acquaintance in the semi-finals of eight rounds. Tommy Leonard of Lowell and Frankie Brown of Boston will make in one preliminary and Frankie Brown of Lowell and Tommy Barrett of Cambridge will meet in a rubber battle in the second preliminary. They have met twice with favors even.

Big List of Entries for Tomorrow Night's Tournament in Crescent Rink

The second amateur boxing tournament under the auspices of the Lisbon Social and Athletic club will be held in Crescent rink tomorrow night when more than two-score ambitious "Shoon Pures" will mix matters for the edification of local fans. John Souza, who has charge of arrangements, assures the public that some of the fastest and most spirited bouts of the year are on tap for tomorrow night. The entry list includes several prominent boxers in Lowell and other cities, many who don the padded suits because they like the game, and boys who give action with a capital "A."

The feature attraction at this show will be Al Mello, Lowell's spectacular 147-pounder and Olympic prospect, who will be pitted against the best of them in his division, including Pat Austin of Boston, thought by many experts to be the best man in the business at his weight. Mello isn't very young, however, and his consistent training will return him a positive winner against any kind of opponent at this time. Red O'Grady, another local star, will appear on the program. The first bout will go on at 8 o'clock.

Concord High Overcomes Six-Run Lead and Wins Out by Score of 12 to 9

Overcoming a six-run handicap, Concord, N. H., high school defeated Lowell high at Alumni field Saturday afternoon by the score of 12 to 9. Cohen started on the mound for Lowell and lasted four innings when he was relieved by Gibbons. The visitors won the game in the fourth when they batted the apple for six runs. The score:

British Champion Stands All Square With American Title Holder

NEW YORK, April 28.—Arthur Havers, British open golf champion, stands all square with Gene Sarazen, American professional champion, today. Havers was a 4 and 4 in an exhibition 18-hole match, the final 36 holes of which were played over the Westchester-Baltimore course yesterday.

The first 18 holes played Saturday at Philadelphia gave the American champion a lead of three holes. But the Englishman displayed a brilliant display of strategy and skill, and the match was a draw. Havers won the match on the sixth extra hole in the 12th round yesterday, and won it in the 12th round of the afternoon round.

The match was a draw in a 12-hole extra match at the 12th hole. Havers won the match on the sixth extra hole in the 12th round yesterday, and won it in the 12th round of the afternoon round.

Havers' play yesterday was a decided contrast to his brand of golf displayed in the American title holder. The Englishman was as good as the pin in almost every shot. Sarazen was erratic from the start. His drives were short, his approach shots either right or left of the pin and on the greens his putt after putt did not find the hole.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

HILARIOUS THEATRE

All roads lead to the Hilario Theatre this week where the new Tom Mix special attraction "North of Hudson Bay" opens a six day run at that theatre today. Tom Mix, since his advent into pictures, has made a great many thrilling photoplays. In fact, all of his pictures are advertised as "gripping," "exciting," "thrilling," etc., but all these adjectives fade into insignificance when it comes to describing "North of Hudson Bay." It's all these and a whole lot more combined. It contains more thrills in one foot of film than any picture in which Mix has been starred—and that's saying a great deal.

Mix is seen in the role of Michael Dane, who goes north to Hudson Bay to find his brother and bring him back home to his mother. While he is on his way north, his brother is murdered and an innocent man is accused of the crime. When Dane arrives there and finds his brother dead, he is astounded. The man accused of the crime is sent on "the journey of death," a severe punishment which actually makes a man his own executioner. It is a crime for anyone to feed or aid him in any way. Mix, not knowing that the man is the supposed murderer of his brother, feeds him and is caught in the act. Together the two men are taken to the trading camp where they are held. Another murder is committed and this time, Mix is accused of the crime. The method employed by the evil culprit is the most ingenious ever devised, in fiction or on the screen. Now Mix discovers the guilty one—and fights his way bare handed through a pack of ferocious Arctic wolves—and how he finally vindicates himself and brings the criminals to justice, makes "North of Hudson Bay" a picture that will long be remembered as a melodramatic masterpiece. We don't care a bit, whether Mix is your favorite actor or not, he will be your favorite after you see this picture and if you have any red blood in your system you'll go out and say that it's the greatest picture you ever saw. The fight with the wolves is without any doubt the most hair-raising climax ever recorded on the screen. How Mix ever escaped this scene without any bodily injury is a miracle. At times it seems as if they would tear him from limb to limb. The added attraction on the program is "Counterfeit Love," a race-track story. The very atmosphere of the locale of the story breathes romance and adventure. The scene of the play is in the south. The leading character—a brave little southern beauty—becomes involved with the fascinating leader of a counterfeit gang, who makes ardent love to her. There is a surprising denouement to the story which reaches a big climax at the county fair. And what a race! It's the last word in realism on the race track.

Other pictures on the bill include a new comedy in an up-to-date miniature issue of Fox News.

R. F. KIPP'S THEATRE

An all-star comedy bill, with musical interludes, is the offering at the R. F. Kipp's theatre, this week. So good is the entire layout that it is very hard to single out one act above and beyond another. "The Piano Tuner," in "The Piano Tuner," are comedians of the first water, while "Chain & Archer" are equally good with their original sketch called, "Not Now." The "Four Diamonds," one of the most noted families of the stage, will entertain with singing, dancing and acrobatics, and "Watts and Hawley" make an witty comedy. "Hurry up and move out—A party wants to move in." "I'll have to get a couple of dynamite caps. This piano won't go through the door." "Will you take down the curtain, roost?" "Hold on! You owe me a month's rent and $48 for injury to the wallpaper and woodwork." "Go back to the shop and get my hob nail shoes! Keep slipping on these hardwood floors."

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Probably the most abused term used in connection with motion pictures is "all star." Nine times out of ten it means "no star," but in the case of the forthcoming production of Rupert of Hentzau, this is by no means the case. It is really the first production in which all of the principals are either stars or else featured leading men and women, as a glance at the following names of the cast will prove: Elaine Hammerstein, Bert Lytell, Lew Cody, Robert Dorworth, Claire Windsor, Bryant Washburn, Marjorie Daw, Mitchell Lewis, Adolphe Menjou, Elmo Lincoln, Irving Cummings.

THE STRAND

Bert Lytell, Blanche Sweet and Bryant Washburn—three B's—make a happy and enjoyable combination in the presentation of the First National feature "The Meanest Man in the World," which is being featured the first part of the week at The Strand.

This trio, assisted by several other well-known players, help to make this production one of real merit. The story has to do with a soft-hearted lawyer who is threatened with disaster because of his soft-heartedness. He decides to be the "meanest man in the world" and his efforts were successful—in a way, but not the way one would naturally expect. You must see the picture story to fully appreciate and enjoy it.

Then there is "A Woman's Woman" with Mary Aldon in the stellar role. This is a delightfully artistic and interesting story of a woman, who after 20 years of drudgery as a wife and mother, decided to throw off the yoke and demand something of her own.

The remainder of the bill is in keeping with the high standard of the rest of the program.

TRIBUTE TO C. F. MURPHY

Thousands Line New York
Streets as Funeral of Tammany Chieftain Moves By

1000 Policemen Line Route of Cortege—13,000 in and Around Cathedral

NEW YORK, April 28.—City and nation today mourned Charles F. Murphy and honored him in death as few have been honored in the metropolis in living memory.

From the towering East Side, from the homes of the wealthy, from every special station, from the manifold walks of life of the greatest city in the world, there came to the bier of the Tammany chieftain in his modest East 17th street home, and to great St. Patrick's cathedral, in Fifth avenue, men and women united in their grief.

Mr. Murphy had been a man of the people and had remained an East Sider in his heart, even unto the pinnacle of his power, and it was his people of the East Side, who, by the thousands expressed their great grief today.

The streets near the unpretentious home soon after daybreak were crowded as they seldom have been with a solemn respectful multitude.

Before the house, 25 policemen kept the crowd in orderly lines as the men and women silently filed into the house and passed the mahogany coffin.

At 9.20 o'clock the doors of the Murphy home were closed to all but relatives and intimate friends and an hour later the casket was borne down the brownstone steps.

In and around the cathedral, police estimated 15,000 persons had gathered, 5000 occupying every available inch of space in the majestic Gothic structure. As the solemn requiem mass was held inside, the crowds outside bowed their heads in prayer. A thousand policemen lined the route of the cortege to Calvary cemetery in Queens, where interment took place.

30 HORSES DIE IN FIRE

Two Fires in Brooklyn Today Caused $500,000 Loss
—45 Persons Overcome

NEW YORK, April 28.—Forty-five persons were overcome in smoke, 30 horses were burned to death and several hundred persons were driven from their homes today by two Brooklyn fires. Damage was estimated at $500,000.

The first fire destroyed several buildings of a lumber company and 15,000,000 feet of pine lumber. Across the street were six new Standard Oil Co. tanks from which the oil was drawn through emergency pipes to Hoboken, N. J. The tanks, now ones replacing those destroyed in a fire in 1915, were separated from the flames by a barrier of water.

The second fire was in a paper factory in a densely populated district. The horses were killed in a stable adjoining the lumber company. Fifty animals in stables adjoining the paper company were saved.

NOT LIVING TOGETHER

Mrs. Enrico Caruso, and Her Husband Separate

NEW YORK, April 28.—Mrs. E. A. Ingram, formerly Mrs. Enrico Caruso, through her attorney, today admitted that she and her husband, Capt. Ingram, an Englishman, had separated. She declared, however, that she would bring neither divorce nor separation suit against her husband.

Mrs. Ingram said she was more concerned with the illness of her little daughter Gloria Caruso, who has the measles, than she was with her marital troubles.

Her attorney explained the rift was caused by "little irritations," one of which was Capt. Ingram's dislike of the United States. He sailed for England the first week in March, and since then Mrs. Ingram has been living with her daughter in a Park avenue apartment house.

Mrs. Ingram said she intended to make her permanent home at the Park avenue address, and as far as is known, Capt. Ingram intends to remain in England.

A half hour later Chief of Police James Ayon and a detail of officers had unearthed her body and discovered one of the most brutal murders in the history of the state.

SOLDIERS' BONUS BILL

Senate and House Conferees
Meet Today to Iron Out
Differences

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Senate and house conferees on the soldiers' bonus bill met today to iron out differences between the bills passed by the two chambers with prospects of an early agreement and report of the measure to President Coolidge.

The senate made more than a score of minor changes in the bill as passed by the house, but the main provisions were kept intact. Both chambers voted for cash payments to veterans not entitled to more than $50 and 30 year endowment insurance policies to others.

Some discussion is expected over the amendment by the senate on motion of Senator Walsh, democrat, Massachusetts, postponing from Jan. 1, 1925, to July 1, 1925, the date of issuance of the insurance policies. The amendment, however, would make cash payments allowed by the bill immediately available instead of nine months after the date of enactment.

Senator Walsh explained later that his proposal was intended to allow time for a new congress to amend the bill if it became law to include an option giving veterans the right to choose full cash payments. Democratic leaders served notice they would make a fight for such an amendment after the bill becomes law, which leaders of both parties expect regardless whether President Coolidge gives it his approval or returns it with a veto.

INCOME TAX SCHEDULES

Senate Maintains Its Swift Pace in Considering the Revenue Bill

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Maintaining its swift pace in considering the revenue bill, the senate today reached the income tax schedule—the main point of controversy in the measure.

While speakers engaged in extended debate, party leaders worked to line up their forces for the vote on this provision, which divided the house on strictly party lines and is expected to be decided similarly in the senate with republican insurgents again holding the balance of power.

Republican leaders frankly admitted today they had little hope of getting approval for the Mellon rates, although a vote on them will be demanded first. While they were prepared to offer amended schedules calling for higher rates and lower normal rates than in the Mellon plan, democrats stood firm and almost united for the schedule advanced by Senator Simmons, democrat, North Carolina, providing less of a reduction in the normal rates than either the house or Mellon schedules.

A vote was not expected on this schedule for several days, some of the democratic leaders being absent from the city attending the funeral of Charles F. Murphy, Tammany leader, in New York.

Disposition of this provision will clear the way for early completion of the measure in the senate. Several amendments on which controversies are expected, are yet to be disposed of, in addition to more than a score of amendments offered by various members. Little time is regarded as necessary, however, for consideration of the latter.

Contagious Ward of Isolation Hospital

SENATE INVESTIGATING COMMITTEES RECESS

WASHINGTON, April 28.—The falling curve of the senate investigations reached a new low level today. It was one of the few investigation holidays in weeks, with all three of the major senatorial investigating committees in recess.

The committee inquiring into the indictment of Eugene Woodruff did not meet because of the absence of the particular witnesses wanted by Chairman Borah in his effort to keep the presentation of evidence in logical order. Both the Daugherty and oil committees were occupied with other things. A session of the Texas frauds committee spoiled a perfect record on the south side of the capital.

On the house side, the shipping, food investigation continued but the military, emergency bureau, aircraft and Northern Pacific food fraud inquiries remained quiescent.

NEW SUN RISING SAYS COOLIDGE

President Predicts the Coming of "a New Day in Scientific Research"

Renews Government's Stamp of Approval of Work of Scientific Organizations

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Setting anew the government's "stamp of approval" on the work of the National Academy of Science and the National Research Council, President Coolidge speaking today at the dedication of the new home here of the two organizations, predicted the coming of "a new day in scientific research."

"A new sun is rising," he said, "it is destined to illuminate the scientific world by illuminating this hall."

The president in his address traced the intimate relationships which from the days of Benjamin Franklin, have existed between science and the American government and declared that "if there be one thing in which America is pre-eminent, it is a disposition to follow the spirit."

"It is the same spirit," he declared, "that has moved through all our life, which makes it particularly appropriate that our national government should be active in its encouragement of the searching out of truth in the physical world, and applying it to the well-being of the people as it is interested in the searching out of truth in the political world, with the same object in view."

Emphasizing the declaration of Washington in his farewell address for promotion of "institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge," Mr. Coolidge said "the beginning of our government, therefore, had to do with the inception of scientific research in the United States."

"American science," he avowed, "may be divided into four periods, the Jefferson period, that of Silliman, the Axtell period, the present period of cooperative research when no one dominates, and the future for which definite foundations are being laid."

During the first period, Jefferson distinguished himself in paleontological researches and set up his laboratory in the East room of the White House.

able action by the court upon the appeal in which the former governor sought a review at his impeachment by the Oklahoma legislature.

WASHINGTON, April 28.—Exports of wheat ending April 25 totalled 57,000 tons from the United States for the week ending April 25, 1924, of which 1,500,000 bushels for the previous week.

During the Silliman period, John Quincy Adams was concerned in the founding of the Smithsonian Institute and other important scientific societies were founded.

After the Civil war, he declared, Lincoln interested himself in science and signed a bill incorporating the National Academy of Science. During the World war when the need for solution of important problems by groups of thinkers rather than individuals was apparent, Wilson had a part in the next scientific stride.

To this end, Mr. Coolidge said, "the national research council was formed, and, after the war, at the request of President Wilson, organized on a permanent peace time footing."

"Nothing with more promise than the fifth period that of the future of American science, could come to the American people," he continued. "The scientific man is rendering the earth to reveal its secrets. Truth must prevail for the betterment of mankind, and with the energy that the men of science are putting into the problems of research, progress would certainly have a chance to lay down his quarter-staff and lantern and rest, if he would turn his search in their direction."

"One of the most important possibilities for service of the national Academy of Science in the future lies in its opportunity for inspiring the people of America to insistence upon having the truth, and nothing but the truth regarding everything that touches our life as a nation. It is always to be borne in mind that while the peculiar relation of the academy to the government of the United States may concern the conduct of specific researches, the example of dignified emphasis upon the truth as reached by correct thinking in every department of research, and in its practical applications, may be a contribution of incalculable value to the whole people."

"It is for this purpose that the government sets its stamp of approval upon this effort, and joins in dedicating this building to the betterment of the human race by achieving a clearer knowledge of the truth."

Y., Apr. 28.—Birth control as a subject of study for the National League of Women Voters, defeated by a vote of two to one on the floor of the league convention today after the most spirited debate of the session. Judge Enright found Morin guilty of drunkenness and placed the case on file. Lavoie was fined $100 for driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He paid. The judge imposed a sentence of $20 for Lavoie's failure to have a Massachusetts license, and as the defendant did not have the money, he was given a week in which to pay.

TESTIMONIAL TO
ALBERT E. BROWN

With the approach of May, much interest is manifested in the public testimonial to be given for Albert Edmund Brown on the evening of Wednesday, May 7, at the Memorial Auditorium. Several well known civic and fraternal organizations are solidly in back of the event and a general committee headed by Robert Thomson already has progressed considerably with the plans. It is anticipated that hundreds of individual citizens also will wish to have a part in the testimonial and it is expected that the Auditorium will house a capacity audience on that night. Early in June, Mr. Brown will remove with his family from Lowell to Ithaca, N. Y., where he will begin his duties as dean of the department of public school music at the Ithaca Conservatory.
